Coast Guard Sent In Futile Search For 'Drowned Man'

Marin City Man Admits Hoax, Sent To Napa State Hospital

A Marin City man who sent the Coast Guard, sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen on a futile search for a mythical drowning victim last night was committed to Napa State Hospital for mental observation today.

Deputies said that 33-year-old Johnnie Johnson of Bldg. C-23, Apt. 180, Marin City, broke down and admitted the hoax after being confronted with conflicting information regarding his report that a friend was missing in the waters of Richardson Bay off Strawberry Point.

Johnson, his clothing soaked, first showed up at Sabella's restaurant at about 8:15 p.m. and told employees he swam ashore from a capsized boat.

He was referred to California Highway Patrolman Donald F. Greer, who notified sheriff's deputies and the Coast Guard.

Deputies met CHP officers and Johnson at Strawberry Point, where Johnson said he came ashore after the capsizing of a 12-foot skiff in which he and a friend named Frank had been cruising the bay. He said he had met Frank in a Sausalito bar.

At 11:45 p.m. a boat was found near the Commodore air base on Redwood Highway, but Johnson, on being taken to the scene, said it was not the same craft.

Deputies then took Johnson home, where they talked with his wife, Mrs. Golda Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson told deputies that Johnson's sister, Topsy Brandon, had received a telephone call about 9 p.m. from a San Rafael bartender, who reported an anonymous call that Johnson had jumped out of a boat and committed suicide.

When confronted with this, plus the fact that he told deputies it was still light enough for him to see when the boat capsized, Johnson admitted the hoax.

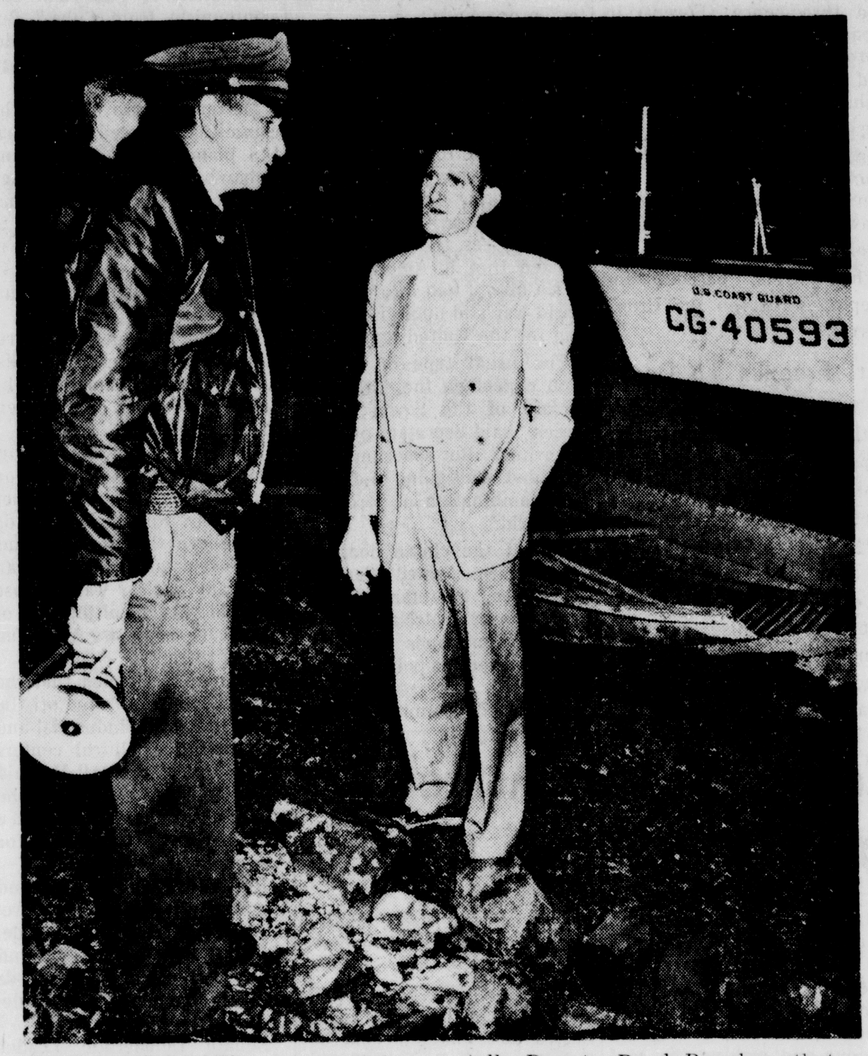
He told deputies he had had domestic trouble, had gotten drunk and wandered out to Strawberry Point, where he lay down in the water.

Then he became frightened and got out again.

He also admitted that he made the anonymous report of his own "suicide."

Investigators said Johnson had been committed to Napa for observation before.

He also was being sought on two outstanding traffic warrants, on which deputies booked him before sending him to Napa.



"NOT SAME BOAT"—Johnnie Johnson (right of Marin City, who sent law enforcement officers and the Coast Guard on a wild goose chase for a capsized boat and a missing "friend," tells Deputy Boyd Burnham that a boat found ashore on Richardson Bay isn't the one he was in. Johnson later admitted the hoax. (Independent-Journal photo)

Youth Drowns In Stinson Tragedy

Waves Prevent Help

James Drew, 17, a San Francisco high school student, died en route to Marin General Hospital yesterday after he was pulled from the surf at Stinson Beach.

Asst. Coroner William Bradley said Drew and five other youths were on a picnic when the drowing occurred. High waves prevented Drew's companions from reaching him. He was picked from the surf about two hours later by a Coast Guard helicopter.

The boys were swimming shortly after lunch when Drew began calling for help about 70 yards from shore.

One of the boys tried to reach Drew, but was balked by waves eight to 10 feet high. Among the boys on the picnic were Neil Farmcroft, Fred Wreden and Jack Grass, all 16, and all students at Lincoln High School in San Francisco. The fourth youth was not identified.

After Drew was brought ashore by helicopter, he was taken to the hospital by the Stinson Beach ambulance. Attempts to revive him by artificial respiration failed.

The body was taken to Russell and Gooch Mortuary.

Bradley said the boy's mother, Mrs. Helen Cavanaugh, was under sedation and in the care of her physician at her home today, and was unable to give any information. The victim's father reportedly is on a ship four days out of Hong Kong.

BIRCH DISPUTE

Battle On For GOP Assembly

ANAHEIM (AP)—Rival factions fought it out on the John Birch Society line today for control of the California Republican Assembly.

Outgoing president Fred Hall of Long Beach, kept up his anti-Birch attack and threw his support to a self-styled Warren Republican as his successor.

Party regulars in the 10,000-member volunteer organization lined up with Hall behind William J. Nelligan, 54, San Francisco telephone technician and a union member. Opponents called him a "machine candidate."

Conservatives backed Harry Waddell of Salinas, a retired Navy commander, and Fred Nagel Jr., a Susanville rancher. Both said they don't belong to the Birch Society but welcomed its support. Nagel, however, disputed Birch methods.

The election will be held tomorrow.

A side note: "Citizens for Goldwater" opened shop in a convention hotel suite. The group sought signatures on petitions urging Sen. Barry Goldwater's nomination for president in 1964.

There was no sign of open activity in behalf of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Hall, at a news conference yesterday, said Birchers captured control of the California Young Republicans last week and, he charged, they hoped to take over the CRA as well.

He termed the society Un-American. Its ultimate objective, he said, is the White House.

Hall, a former governor of Kansas, offered a guess that there are up to 500 Birchers in the CRA. Waddell disputed his figure.

"I know offhand of about three Birchers in the CRA,"

U.S. Aide Heads For Disarm Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. disarmament chief William C. Foster leaves for Geneva tonight and an apparently forlorn attempt to bring about an East-West treaty to outlaw nuclear testing.

Although the United States offered another concession on its stand, the Soviet Union refused yesterday to increase its offer of two or three on-site inspections, and broke off the three-nation talks. The United States had banked most of its hopes for progress in these three-way discussions.

Thus the stage was set for an expected propaganda battle in the full 17-nation Geneva Disarmament Conference. Foster planned to present the U.S. case there.

Councilmen Take Look At Path

Three Corte Madera town councilmen, accompanied by about a score of residents, saw for themselves today how a patio blocks a hillside path used by children going to school.

After the inspection, Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow said he felt "the council will know that direction to take" at its meeting on March 4.

The "direction," Brandow indicated, would be toward forcing owner Carl J. Kalb of Larkspur to remove part of a patio that extends from his home at 124 Crescent Road onto the 30-foot right-of-way for the foot path. He said Kalb has agreed to do so.

COUPLE ON FOOT HURLED OFF OF ROAD BY AUTO

Two San Francisco hikers (not 50-mile) were knocked off Tennessee Valley Road and a San Rafael youth's jaw was smashed by a timber sticking from a passing truck in separate traffic accidents in Marin last night.

The hikers, Carol McGraw, 26, and John Davis, 42, were hit by a car driven by Francis J. Wenner, 26, of 365 Marin Avenue, Mill Valley, according to the California Highway Patrol. The accident happened about one-fifth of a mile west of Shoreline Highway.

Davis, who suffered only abrasions, told officers he and Miss McGraw heard the sound of a car rounding a curve, and the next thing he knew the car was bearing down on them. The hikers were walking east along the north shoulder of the road, and Wenner was driving east. Officers said Wenner allowed his car to drift into the wrong lane and onto the shoulder.

The hikers were hurled down an embankment, landing about 39 feet from the point where Wenner's car left the pavement.

Miss McGraw, who was carried up the bank on a stretcher by Tamalpais firemen and highway patrol officers, suffered a possible fractured pelvis. She and Davis were taken to Marin General Hospital. Dayis was released after treatment, and Miss McGraw was transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco.

Injured on North San Pedro Road, one-fourth of a mile east of Sunny Oak Avenue, at 6:15 p.m. yesterday was Raymond James Velati, 18, son of Raymond A. Velati, of 59 Ridge Avenue, San Rafael, a sergeant in the San Anselmo Police Department.

Velati, driving an MG sports car west, met a flatbed truck being driven east by Donald Holton, 18, of 174 Scenic Ave-

Headless, Armless Body Found On Marin Beach

A headless, armless and half legless body, identified as that of a man about 50 or older, was found on the beach at Paradise Cove on Tiburon Peninsula yesterday afternoon.

A pathologist's report today showed that the body, which had been in the water for two or three months, bore no sign of injury. The dead man was about five feet, nine or 10 inches tall. Remnants of a blue plaid shirt, with a pattern in two-inch squares, were found on the body, said Asst. Coroner William Bradley. The lower legs and feet were missing.

The body was discovered about 3:45 p.m. by Mrs. Delores Dallman of 7 Playa Verde, Tiburon, and her sister, Mrs. Inez Smith of Georgetown, El Dorado County. The body had washed into the hull of an old boat which had been lying on the beach for years.

The women reported their discovery to their husbands, Vernon S. Dallman and Neil Smith, who called sheriff's deputies and Coroner Frank J. Keaton.

Cuba Claims U. S. Sending Navy Vessels Into Its Waters

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba accused the United States today of sending a naval vessel into its waters Thursday and violating Cuban sovereignty.

The charge came on the heels of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's speech last night accusing the United States of making the seas off Cuba unsafe for navigation and denying that his forces had attacked an American shrimp boat. (See also page 2.)

A photograph distributed by the government news agency carried a caption saying the American ship accused of violating Cuban waters was the USS Oxford. The photo showed a hazy silhouette of an antenna-studden merchantman, a ship that can often be seen from the Havana waterfront cruising across the horizon.

At the same time, pictures were released showing what the Cubans said was a counter-revolutionary group captured this week. The group allegedly operated from a small British-owned key about 35 miles north of Cuba.

The Havana press gave prominent display to pictures of the eight men, described as the attackers of a fishing flotilla Feb. 13.

The Cuban navy said the group hijacked two trawlers which were then recaptured while the eight attempted to land arms on the northern coast of Cuba.

Hot Dog! 8-Year-Old Girl Makes Hike

By RICHARD LYTTLE

It took two attempts, but 8-year-old Judy Aylwin of 50 Corte Alejo, Greenbrae, finally made the 50-mile hike yesterday.

"It was just 20 hours," reported her brother John, 19, a College of Marin track star, who accompanied her. In the mass hike from Redwood High School on Feb. 11, a disappointed Judy dropped out after walking more than half way.

"She was tired and hungry," John reported after they returned to Redwood High School parking lot at 12:30 a.m. today. "But she has marvelous recuperative powers."

The brother and sister team's time was nearly twice the blistering 10 hours and 35 minutes it took Roger Lais, 15, of 173 the Alameda, San Anselmo, to complete a run from Drake High School to Inverness and back.

"I feel fine," said Roger, the first of about 15 Drake High School students who finished the hike yesterday He left the school at 4:05 a.m. and returned at 2:40. His time was the fastest reported in the Washington Birthday March which saw about 200 hikers on Marin roads.

Of 20 dog owners and their German Shepherd dogs who started on the hike, eight finished, according to Cappy Pottle of Cotati. Jack Henry, 24, of Mill Valley, who started from Corte Madera Center with his dog, Chala, had hoped to set a speed record, but he missed the Nicasio Road turnoff in San Geronimo Valley, went about seven miles out of his way and failed to catch up with the rest of the dog owners.

He took the road from Nicasio directly to Petaluma, finishing a 35-mile course in six hours and 15 minutes.

Other dog owners took a route from Nicasio on to Marshall, Tomales, Two Rock and Petaluma. In most cases, the dropouts were due to dog owners with tired feet, not tired dogs, Miss Pottle said.

Marin dog owners who finished were Karen Henry, Jack Henry's wife; Lonni Masoure-

BALLOON BURSTS — A series of blasts yesterday ruined an $8,000 giant unmanned space exploration balloon at Palestine, Tex. The 80-foot-by-60-foot balloon was to travel above the earth's atmosphere to study Mars. Scientists said extreme gas pressure caused the bag to burst. (AP Wirephoto)

Betancourt Plays Host To Labor

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt was host today to a breakfast for about 40 Venezuelan and American labor leaders. They gathered in a heavily guarded private dining room atop Miami International Airport.

Betancourt, arriving about 10 minutes late, sat at the head table. He was flanked by Jose Gonzalez Nararro, president of the Confederation of Workers of Venezuela, and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO. Meany attended the breakfast with members of the federation's Executives Council.

Betancourt, closing out a four-day visit to the United States, arrived last night from New York. Earlier he had attended Washington conferences with President John F. Kennedy and State Department officials.

Security officers of the State Department escorted newsmen and photographers through the dining room in groups of 10. Each group was given brief moments to observe and take pictures.

Meany told newsmen he looked forward to seeing Betancourt.

"We feel he stands for real democracy and is a standout in Latin America," Meany said.

The meeting with the U.S. labor leaders was reportedly aimed at bolstering Betancourt's already strong support among workers in Venezuela where Communist forces have been active.

Betancourt planned to fly to Mexico City from Miami.

Brown Is Choice

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Josiah Beeman, president of the California Federation of Young Democrats, has picked Gov. Edmund G. Brown as his choice for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1966.

Beeman, here for a three-day legislative issues conference of the federation, said yesterday if Brown does not choose to run for re-election, the strongest candidates would be State Controller Alan Cranston and Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

French-Brazilian Lobster Fight

PARIS (AP) — Brazilian Ambassador Carlos Alves de Souza today delivered a personal message from Brazilian President Joao Goulart to President Charles de Gaulle.

The message presumably concerned the dispute between the two countries over lobster fishing by French boats off the Brazilian coast.

Brazil claims the French boats have no right to fish for lobsters on the Continental Shelf off Brazil. The French contend the fishermen are working in international water as far as 100 miles off the coast.

Brazil ordered the French fishermen to leave the disputed waters and threatened to arrest them if they returned. France dispatched a warship to Brazil to protect the fishermen.

Family Of 10 Dies In Blaze

MOREHOUSE, Mo. (AP) — A family of 10 was killed in a fire at their home today.

Dead are Paul Saville, 47; his wife Shirley, 25 and their eight children, Paul David, Jr., 10; Glenda Sue, 9; Hester, 8; Everett, 7; Alvin, 5; Michael, 2; Henderson 2; Zelda Mae, 4 months.

Chief of Police J. T. Kindred said the family was trapped in the one-story frame dwelling. The bodies were found in two beds, Kindred said.

U.S. Blocks Russ In Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — U. S. authorities today barred four busloads of Soviet military personnel from entering West Berlin at Checkpoint Charlie on the Communist wall dividing the city.

The Soviets were on their way to the Soviet War Memorial in West Berlin for a wreath-laying ceremony on Red Army Day.

A U. S. spokesman said the buses were stopped at the request of British authorities, who had reached an agreement with the Soviets that military personnel going to the memorial would use the Sandkrug Bridge checkpoint in the British Sector.

After the four buses turned back, they drove to the Sandkrug Bridge checkpoint and were allowed to pass.

Death Toll Could Be 700

ROME (AP) — The American diplomatic mission in Benghazi said today that the toll in the earthquake at Al Marj, Libya, was estimated at between 500 and 700.

The mission said more than 200 bodies had been recovered through this morning, with between 300 and 500 persons believed buried under the debris of ruined buildings.

Clue To Weather

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet weathermen offered a possible clue today to the snow and cold that belted Europe this winter.

They said the traditional icebox of the Soviet Union—known as the "pole of cold" in northeastern Siberia—shifted westward and southward this year into the European part of the Soviet Union.

They did not guess why this happened, but Siberia was the warmest it has been in recent years while Moldavia and the Ukraine in the south shivered to the worst frosts in 50 years.

Diefenbaker In Britain

LONDON (UPI) — Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker arrived here today for pre-election trade and defense talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Diefenbaker was accompanied by his wife, Olive, Trade and Commerce Minister Wallace McCutcheon and newly appointed Defense Minister Gordon Churchill.

Kennedy On Holiday

Berkeley Bomb Blast

BERKELEY (UPI) — A bomb, presumed to be a relic of World War II, blew up a laundry shute early today at the Marshall Steel Cleaners.

Around the corner in the next block is the Pacifica Foundation's controversial FM radio station KPFA, which the day before had been threatened with bombing.

Idea For Polaris

WASHINGTON (AP)—By using converted merchant ships instead of submarines, the Navy believes NATO could build Polaris missile ships at about half the cost and a year sooner.

The United States has swung around to the idea of surface ships as a base for the missiles, as an alternative to the expensive Polaris submarines, in order to speed creation of a NATO force.

Cold And Clear

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter took a final weekend punch at February today as unseasonably cold temperatures and clear skies covered most of the nation.

Subzero temperatures were recorded in the Northeast and Midwest and the mercury stayed below the freezing point in most other areas.

Actor-Dancers Ailing

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor-dancer Gene Kelly entered Mt. Sinai hospital yesterday for what his physician predicted would be a stay of several weeks for treatment of a slipped disc.

Prisoners Returned

KAKAVIA, Greece (AP)—Communist Albania last night returned 129 Greeks taken prisoner in the Communist civil war of 1945-49. They were permitted to bring personal belongings and 2,000 head of livestock.

Beefeaters Pay Hike

LONDON (AP)—The Beefeaters, colorfully garbed warders of the Tower of London, agreed last night to accept a shilling and three-pence (17-cent) increase in their daily pay. Threatening a slowdown, they had asked the War Office for a shilling nine pence (24 cents).

The 38 beefeaters, one of London's biggest tourist attractions in their striped medieval uniforms and black caps, draw 14 pounds ($39) a week. Their special duties include night patrols, parades and keeping watch on the Crown Jewels.

Girl Freezes To Death

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—Authorities yesterday found a crippled Negro girl frozen to death in an unheated room of the house where she lived. They said there was ice on the floor.

Coroner A. G. Osborne ruled that Mary Louise Keith, a teen-ager, froze to death. She lived with her grandfather, Wyatt Harper.

U.S. Shrugs Off New Russ Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apparently unimpressed, official Washington has shrugged off the new Soviet missile flexing over Cuba as "blast and bluster" propaganda.

The threats from Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky were regarded as blood-and-thunder morale builders—both for at home and for Fidel Castro's regime.

In a Moscow speech yesterday, marking the eve of the 45th anniversary of the Soviet armed forces, the Red marshal warned that if Americans attack Cuba, it will mean a third world war and nuclear devastation for the United States.

The usual type of oratory "you expect on the 45th anniversary of the Soviet armed forces," said Secretary of State Dean Rusk. But speechmaking, he added, isn't going to change "the combination of forces in the world."

Behind the closed doors of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara outlined U.S. methods for carrying out American policy toward Cuba.

Afterward committee Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said McNamara had "made it very clear that we are pursuing a policy that will result in the elimination of Castroism and communism from Cuba." But Russell declined to go into details on the grounds they are classified.

McNamara also assured the committee, Russell said, that U.S. planes will shoot down any Cuban-based MIGs that attack American ships or installations.

"There is no doubt that in the future the American planes, even if they do so in error, will retaliate," said Russell.

He said the question of retaliation had come up in a discussion with McNamara of the Cuban MIG attack on an American shrimp boat.

Scoffing at the Soviet suggestion that any U.S. move on Cuba might touch off another world war, Russell said, "I do not believe that the Russians are 10 feet tall. I hope we can avoid any nuclear war because it would kill tens of millions of Americans while we are eliminating them."

Malinovsky claimed that the Soviet Union can "wipe off the earth all targets, industrial and administrative-political centers of the United States." He said it can "destroy completely the countries which have made available their territories for American war bases."

Russell called it "blast and bluster" and said Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's decision to withdraw missiles and bombers from Cuba proved "we now have superior nuclear delivery systems."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana found nothing new in the Soviet threats. But Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the Russians should be answered and indicated he might have more to say on that score later.

"Pure propaganda" was the label Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) put on the Malinovsky speech.

In a Richmond, Va., speech, Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) urged a hard policy "to wipe out all Soviet-dominated governments in this hemisphere."

Castro Denies Attack On U.S. Shrimp Boat

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro today denied that his forces had attacked an American shrimp boat. He charged instead that the United States was creating artificial tensions and making the seas off Cuba unsafe for navigation.

As thousands cheered, Castro read extracts from Soviet Defense Minister Rodon Malinovsky's Moscow speech yesterday in which the Soviet arms chief warned that a U.S. attack on Cuba would touch off World War III.

"Fidel, Khrushchev, we are with you both!" roared the crowd at the midnight rally—first meeting of the United Party of Socialist Revolution.

This is a Soviet-style monolithic organization Castro has created to supplant old political parties and to rule Cuba.

Denying responsibility for the shrimp boat incident, Castro nevertheless vowed to defend himself "by all possible means against any attack."

Castro disclosed his new party already has 10,000 members in western Cuba and that new ones are being chosen from the ranks of his regime's militants.

During a three-hour speech which began late last night, Castro also charged Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt was a "traitor . . . the partner of such colonialist puppets as Puerto Rican Governor Luis Munoz Marin."

The American boat Ala "didn't even fly a flag," Castro said. "Of course, this was a consequence of the state of chaos which imperialism has created in our waters."

SECOND TIME IS THE CHARM — Eight-year-old Judy Aylwin and her 19-year-old brother John of Greenbrae hike determinedly through San Geronimo Valley on 50-mile trudge. dis, Randy Mason and Martin Balzarini, all eighth graders at Santa Venetia Junior High School, and Sharon Reed of San Rafael.

The dogs who finished will place their paw marks at the bottom of a special delivery letter that will go to the White House, challenging Mrs. John F. Kennedy's German Shepherd, Clipper, to a 50-mile hike.

The dog march was sponsored by the Superior California German Shepherd Dog Club.

Sherri Dimmick, 13, was the only one of nine eighth graders from Hill School in Novato who finished a 54-mile hike to Marshall, Point Reyes Station and back yesterday. She did it in 13 hours.

"She does a lot of dancing and keeps in good shape," said her mother, Mrs. Francis M. Dimmick, 709 Del Mar Avenue, Novato.

Two Terra Linda High School sophomores finished among a file of nine who hiked out Lucas Valley Road to Tomales and back. Peter Cowger, 15, did it in 12 hours and 52 minutes, and Don Williams did it in 14 hours and 58 minutes.

Harold Wagstaff and his son Brock, 14, hiked 25 miles to Point Reyes Station where they decided they had had enough. "My feet were screaming," Wagstaff said. It was Brock's second attempt at the 50-mile hike.

Six from Marin Catholic High School finished the course to Point Reyes Station and back with Shamus O'Connell of Fairfax logging the best time of 14 hours and two minutes. Other finishers were Brian Tobin, 15, of Ross; Rich Connor, 15, of San Rafael, and Loren Thoeleche, 16, Bob Powers, 15, and Don Dealtry, 15, all of San Anselmo.

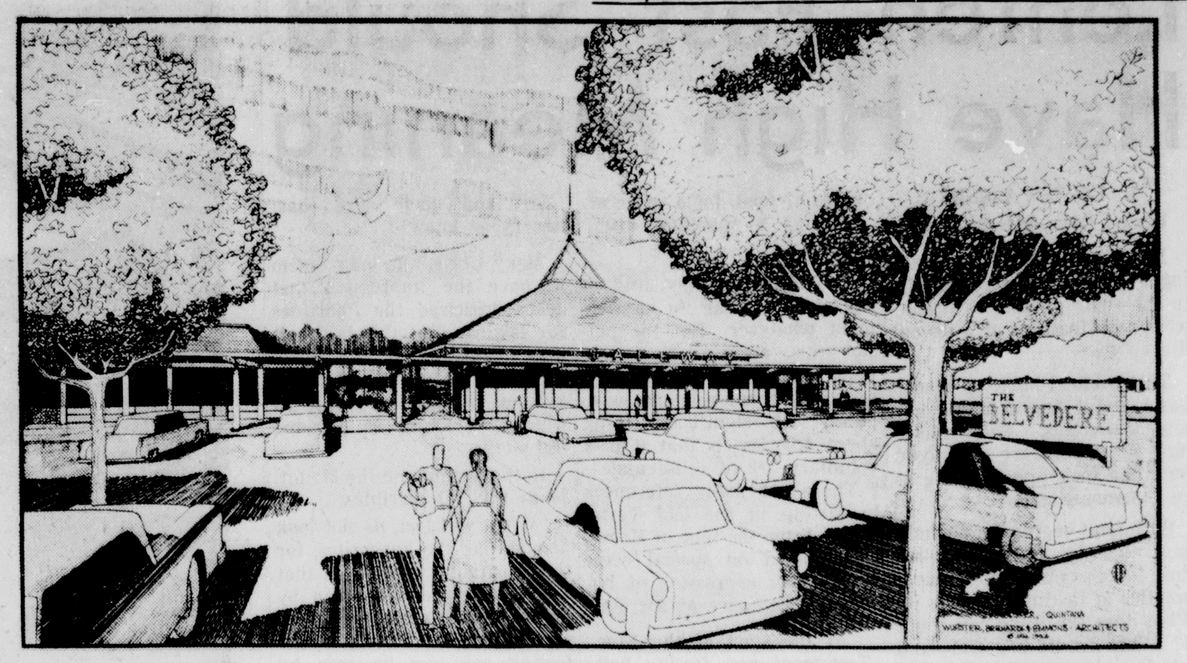
Drake High sophomore Laura Gavre, 15, of San Anselmo reported that she was with a group that completed the course in 12½ hours. With her were Todd Hedin and Hans Kramer, sophomores, Dave Kunkel, a freshman, and his brother, Charles, who is a seventh grader.

Drake sophomores Al Hadley and Bob Hodge did the hike in 14½ hours.

Three of 35 hikers, mostly from Novato High School, finished a 55-mile loop to Tomales, Marshall and back in 11 hours and 55 minutes. They are Terry Buettner and Carl Jensen, seniors at Novato, and Mike Fleming, a freshman at College of Marin.

"We ran all the way from Novato to Tomales, about 23 miles, before we stopped and walked," Beuttner said. He reported he had some fierce blisters today.

Two fathers, Bud Souza and Robert Wallace of Marinwood, took nine boys, from 11 to 14 years, out Lucas Valley Road to Inverness and back in 16 hours and 20 minutes. All but one boy finished the hike.



SAFEWAY STORE WITH LANTERN ON TOP

Unusual in supermarket design will be the 20,000-square-feet Safeway Store to be built as the first unit in Fred G. Zelinsky's nine-acre Belvedere commercial development, across from the Belvedere Boardwalk. Design by architects Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons includes a stained glass lantern atop the store building. The construction will be by a combination of general contractors MacDonald, Young and Nelson, and Swinerton and Walberg, for developer Linn Alexander. Safeway will lease the store, which is scheduled for completion by the end of the year.

San Rafael Political Activity Is Due For Step-Up Monday

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

San Rafael political activity is due for a step-up Monday as the period opens for filing nomination petitions for the city election of Monday, April 8.

City Clerk W. L. Morgan has already given out numerous sets of papers for verification deputies to declared or prospective candidates. Circulation of petitions, however, is not legal until Monday. The candidates then have until March 8 to file the petitions with the necessary verified signatures.

So far, there are announced candidates for every position at stake in the election, but only for chief of police and board of education are contests assured.

Mayor John F. McInnis has announced he will seek a fourth two-year term as mayor. There has as yet been no hint of an opposition candidate.

Terms of City Councilmen Fred E. Jensen and Charles W. Aby expire. Jensen and printer Lothar Salin have announced their candidacies. Aby has made no announcement as yet, but is expected to run for another term. Also considering entering the council race is C. Paul Bettini, whose term on the board of education is expiring.

Morgan has declared for another term as city clerk, and Angelina J. Soldavini for another term as city treasurer. Neither is expected to have opposition.

For city attorney, Councilman David Menary Jr. has declared himself a candidate. Incumbent City Atty. A. E. Bagshaw has announced he will not seek another term, but Menary is expected to have opposition from John G. Buresh, San Rafael resident who is city attorney of San Anselmo.

A wide-open race seems assured for three positions on the board of education, although none of the three whose terms expire has yet declared himself for re-election and one today announced he definitely will not be a candidate.

Three candidates already have announced: Mrs. Edythe S. Tait, Carl J. Brown and L. E. Weisenburg Jr. Papers for verification deputies have been taken out for three others, who may run as a ticket. Two of these, it was learned, are architect H. D. Sokoloff, who was nosed out two years ago, and chemist Robert Bolt. The third person on the ticket was still undetermined.

Also planning to seek a board of education spot, it was learned, is Melvin R. Stidham, a Terra Linda lawyer whose practice is in San Francisco.

Rex T. Silvernale, the board's "dean" with 10 years service, today said he definitely will not be a candidate for another term. "They have been 10 interesting years," said Silvernale, "but I think I have done my share."

Roderick P. Martinelli, president of the board, has been out of town for several weeks but at last report was not planning to seek re-election. The third member whose term expires is Bettini, who has been considering the city council race. If Martinelli does not run, Bettini has indicated he may declare for the board of education instead of the council.

The race for police chief developed early, with Nick Giampoli, then a police lieutenant but since discharged, announcing last September he would be a candidate. Chief Charles J. Chiesa has declared himself for another term. There have been rumors of a possible third candidate.

Science Fair On At Reed Monday

The Reed Union School District annual Science Fair will be held next Monday through Thursday. Entries are being submitted by students in the fifth through eighth grades and are displayed at Reed School.

All exhibits will be on display Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at an open house.

Twilight Is Tricky Time For Drivers

CHICAGO (AP)—Twilight is a beautiful time of day, but for a motorist it can be the trickiest.

"I am not a knight in shining armor, but many of us are alarmed by the extremists," he said.

"There should be room in our party for all conscientious groups. However, I feel strongly, we shouldn't provide a stage for the extremists to perform the dance of destruction for the Repulican Party."

Waddell pointed out that the Birch Society is not on the Attorney General's list of subversives and said he would accept Birch support "wholeheartedly."

"I am a conservative Republican," he said. "I am running on a completely conservative program."

PATH

Bonne Berends at 122 Crescent Road, which similarly extends into the right of way, will not have to be moved, Brandow said. Berends is one of those who have complained about fence and patio erected by Kalb and his tenant, Gene Cravillion, which virtually blocked the pathway. Berends' patio was there first.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst and Councilmen Norman R. Barnett and Charles F. Pendleton made the inspection tour. Complainants had promised 200 residents would go along, but only about 20 showed up.

The right of way, shown on town maps dating from 1907, was turned over to the town by quit-claim deeds signed by 15 property owners recently, in hope the town would improve the steep, slippery pathway that children use to reach Neil Cummins and Larkspur-Corte Madera Schools.

Meanwhile, Cravillion complained today that he did not squirt Berends with hot water, as Berends was quoted as saying yesterday. He said that as he was watering the lawn once, Berends accidentally got in the way—but the water was cold.

However, claimed Cravillion, Berends turned the hose into a car parked in the right of way by Cravillion's brother-in-law, Vincent Field of San Francisco, ruining the upholstery.

Moreover, said Cravillion, Berends "has harassed us constantly ever since we moved in last July."

Stolen Auto Is Recovered

A car stolen in Novato Thursday night was recovered yesterday in San Rafael with its two dummy spot lights, battery ground and generator wires torn out.

Timothy Wood Gillespie, 13, of 272 Fairhills Drive, telephoned police at 11 a.m. that he and friends had found an abandoned car at the end of Quarry Road.

An electric saw, believed stolen from the Novato area the same night, was found in the car. The car was stolen from Mrs. Robert Sheffield of 1117 Second Street, Novato, while it was parked in front of 477 Sunset Parkway.

Lenten Fast Should Have High Meaning

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In the Bible, prayer and fasting are mentionad repeatedly in the same phrase, as if they were twin features of a devout life.

This Biblical habit of speech has a quaint ring to many modern Christians. They recognize the importance of prayer. But they look upon fasting as an outworn custom.

With Lent beginning Wednesday, this is an appropriate time to re-examine the ancient practice of fasting. What is it? What does the Bible say about it? What are its benefits—and pitfalls?

Fasting is defined in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary as "voluntary abstinance from food, or from certain types of food, for a space of time as a spiritiual discipline."

The most rigorous kind of fasting is to take no nourishment whatever. But the person who "gives up candy for Lent" is also fasting, after a fashion. From a religious viewpoint, the significant thing about any fast is that it is a voluntary act of self-denial.

There are many references to fasting in the Old Testament. From the time of Moses, Jews fasted on special occasions as an expression of humility, repentance or sorrow.

At the start of the New Testament era, fasting had become a prescribed ritual, bound up like other religious duties in an intricate system of laws. The Pharisees fasted every Monday and Thursday, and made sure that everyone knew it.

Many Christians today seem to have the impression that Jesus criticized the Pharisees for fasting. But this is a serious misreading of the Scripture. His criticism was aimed at the ostentatious way in which the Pharisees paraded the piety.

In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus told his disciples:

"When you fast, do not look dismal, like the hypocrites, for they disfigure their faces that their fasting may be seen by men . . . but anoint your head and wash your face, that your fasting may not be seen by men but by your Father who is in Heaven . . ."

These words clearly imply that Jesus expected his disciples to fast. They also seem to say that fasting, when done as a secret act of devotion, is pleasing to God.

The New Testament records that Jesus himself fasted, at the start of his ministry, when he was wrestling with the temptation to win men to his side the easy way.

The early Christian church followed his example. Passages in the Book of Acts and St. Paul's letters indicate that fasts were observed especially in times of crisis, when the apostles felt a particular need of divine guidance.

No one could be more articulate than Paul in asserting that Christian living is a matter of responding to God's love, rather than merely keeping the law. But it was also Paul who insisted on the need for "bringing the body under subjection" by deliberate acts of self-discipline, such as fasting.

The apostle warned that men and women who are slaves to their own appetites are not free to hear and obey the voice of God.

Fasting has its pitfalls. The main one, as Jesus pointed out, is pride. It can take the crude form of bragging about what you've given up for Lent. Or it can take the subtler and more dangerous form of secretly feeling superior to those who aren't fasting.

But non-fasting can equally be an occasion of spiritual pride. The person who says that he doesn't need to fast during a special period like Lent because "I practice Christian self-denial all year-round" is not far from the Pharisees.

Fasting can also do more spiritual harm than good if it is undertaken in the belief that its main purpose is to "strengthen will power." This may indeed be a by-product of fasting, but the person who makes it his chief objective is apt to forget that Christians rely not on their own strength, but on the grace of God.

"The purpose of Lent is not self-control," says Peter Day, editor of the Living Church Magazine, "but the giving over of self to the control of God.

"Fasting is not so much for the growth of strength of character as it is a getting out of the way of those things which, though good in themselves, obscure the leading of the Holy Spirit in our lives."

Each person must decide for himself which bodily appetites and pet pleasures have gained such a hold on him that they "obscure the leading of the Holy Spirit." Saints who have already surrendered all worldly affections perhaps have no need to fast. Others may conclude that they need this form of self-discipline at least as much as Jesus did.

Marin Churches Mark Ash Wednesday, Lent

Many Marin County churches will mark the beginning of Lent with Ash Wednesday services.

And throughout the 40-day season, there will be special services which commemorate Christ's days of fasting. In most cases, the special services will be on Wednesday evenings. Several churches will also offer instruction in preparation for Easter, April 14.

Resurrection Lutheran Church, Terra Linda, will hold Lenten services at 8 p.m. each Wednesday. Rev. N. J. Bangert will give a series of sermons entitled, "Calvary Attitudes."

Grace Lutheran Church, Corte Madera, will have Lenten services at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday. Rev. Arthur Koehler will preach a series of sermons on "The Cross."

Christ the Victor Luthern Church, Fairfax, will have Wednesday services at 7:45 p.m. each Wednesday with Rev. John Rotto preaching on "Human Problems and Our Lenten Lord."

St. Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael, will mark Shrove Tuesday next week with a 6:30 p.m. supper at the parish hall. The event is sponsored annually by the Advocates, an adult group of the church.

The First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo will have Lenten services at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday in the Fireside Room. Rev. Henry Kuizenga, Rev. James Young and Rev. Paul Buchholz will conduct classes aimed at defining "the Nature of the Church."

Sudan Denies Persecution Of Christians

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republic of the Sudan, a new African nation adjoining Egypt, has denied that it is conducting a campaign of persecution against Christian missionaries.

A statement issued by Sudan's embassy in Washington says the republic's policy "has always been, and shall always be, to guarantee and protect freedom of religion and worship for all citizens and all foreign residents without discrimination of any kind."

Sudan is a predominantly-Moslem country with a sizable Christian minority. Its government last year adopted a law to "regulate" activities of missionaries. Both Catholic and Protestant mission groups in the United States have charged that the law places severe restrictions on Christian activities, and that many missionaries have been expelled from the country.

The embassy statement said that the charges "are either untrue or heavily distorted."

San Rafael Church Will Be Dedicated Tomorrow

Dedication services of the First Church of Religious Science, 1403 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the church with Dr. Mark Carpenter, administrator of affiliated churches, officiating.

The parish, dedicated as a fellowship parish a year ago, now has enough members to qualify as a church. It is affiliated with the Church of Religious Science of Los Angeles.

TORONTO WILL BE HOST FOR ANGLICANS

TORONTO, Canada (UPI)—More than 1,000 church leaders from 40 nations will attend a world-wide Anglican congress here next Aug. 13-23.

The congress will be the largest religious gathering of its kind ever held in Canada. It will bring together all branches of the Anglican communion, a global fellowship of churches historically related to the Church of England. There are about 40 million Anglicans in the world, including 3.5 million Americans who are members of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Businessmen Form Christian Group

Ten Christian businessmen of Marin have recently formed a Christian Business Men's Committee and hope for a charter soon for the International Committee of Christian Business Men.

The group, headed by Lyle D. Hood, president, meets at the Travelers Inn, San Rafael, each Wednesday noon for lunch.

St. John's In Ross Started With Chapel 82 Years Ago

St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross, now in a sedate stone building at the corner of Shady Lane and Lagunitas Road, had its start 82 years ago today in a small frame chapel.

On Feb. 23, 1881, several residents of Ross Valley, needing a church of interdenominational character, organized the San Anselmo Chapel. The first building, a small, wooden structure, was located where Ross Memorial Park is today.

First trustees of the new chapel were William Barber, M. M. Thompkins, C. Temple Emmett, Alfred Todhunter and Southard Hoffman.

The Book of Common Prayer was used for services, but there was no connection with the Episcopal Diocese of California. First clergyman was Todhunter, an Englishman who had a passion for cricket. He would lead the community in cricket matches as well as in worship.

For many years, the chapel was ministered by part-time clergymen. They included W. H. Story, C. L. Miel, William A. Hamilton, Wyllis Hall and M. D. Wilson.

Under the latter's rectorship, St. John's Parish was organized on Aug. 22, 1907, and on Jan. 28, 1908, it was admitted to the Diocese of California. Incorporation came April 18, 1908.

It is this date that the parish now marks for its anniversaries, Rev. Harold E. Hallett, present rector said. Today's anniversary is not marked by the congregation. Father Hallett figures that this oversight is due to the fact that early records of the church were not available when anniversary observations began.

First full-time rector of the parish was Hubert Cowley-Carroll who was installed March 8, 1908. It was during his ministry that the present church was built on land donated by James Coffin.

Bishop William Ford Nichols laid the cornerstone for the new building on Nov. 13, 1910. The church was finished late in 1911 and fully paid for on June 2, 1912 by residents of Ross Valley.

Rev. William A. DeWitt was the second rector of the parish. He served until 1917 when he left to join the ROTC. Next, Rev. Charles P. Deems, head of the Seaman's Institute in San Francisco, served the church on a part time basis until 1922. He was followed by Rev. William H. Powell who served until 1926. Then came Rev. William Wood who served until 1928.

The bishop appointed Rev. Lynn T. White, a Presbyterian professor at San Francisco Theological Seminary at San Anselmo to serve as part time interim rector. This unusual relationship was the start of a close tie between St. John's and the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

The two churches still alternate Thanksgiving services, keeping up the close association.

Rev. John Compton Leffler came as rector in 1929. It was during his ministry that the Ross Valley Players were organized with the parish house as their headquarters. The Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops also flourished under church guidance.

In 1940, Leffler left to become rector of St. Luke's in San Francisco and White returned to serve St. John's temporarily until Rev. Charles Greenleaf arrived to take over. He served, despite ill health, until 1942 when the present rector, Father Hallett came from a church in Quincy, Mass.

There have been many changes even in the recent years of Father Hallett's service.

"The community has changed," he said. "It once was mostly an area of older, retired citizens. Now we have young couples and many children."

On Sept. 23, 1951, a corner stone was laid by Bishop K. M. Block for an addition to the parish hall to take care of the growing Sunday school enrollment.

In 1958, an addition to the sanctuary was completed. It increased the seating capacity from 160 to 320. And in 1962 a new organ was installed and dedicated.

The church's history, closely tied to community activities, has been one of both physical and spiritual growth, Father Hallett said.

Policeman Finds Mission In Life

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Raymond Grimes has made an unusual swap of costumes.

For 17 years he wore the uniform of the New York Police Department.

For a while he acted as motorcycle escort for distinguished visitors. One of them was the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Most of the time he was a traffic cop. One of his posts was Times Square, about as busy a spot as can be found.

Now he wears the cassock of a Roman Catholic apostolic assistant—a layman who does what he can to help.

And the village of Topawa deep in the heart of the arid, sun-baked Papago Indian Reservation where he and his wife live is about as quiet and tranquil as any in the nation.

In a way he is still handling traffic.

Instead of streams of cars, it is the trickle of mail that passes through the small Indian community. One of his tasks is to act as postmaster.

Grimes is a sturdy, gray-haired man of 59 who decided there were more important things in life than unsnarling traffic—and did something about it.

In 1959 he turned in his badge, came to Tucson and offered his services to the Most Rev. Daniel J. Gercke, then Roman Catholic bishop of the diocese of Tucson.

The bishop sent him to the Solano Mission at Topawa, about eight miles south of the reservation headquarters at Sells.

Grimes did whatever needed doing at the mission. Most of it was maintenance and repair work. The village needed a postmaster, so Grimes took over.

"This post office detail was wished on me when they moved it from the mission proper," Grimes explained. "There was no one else to be postmaster, so I took over."

It would be hard to find a much smaller post office. The outside measurements are 12 by 16 feet, but it is complete with a flagpole and an American flag that flies daily. Star route mail is delivered three times a week.

"I like this much better than New York," he said. "There is tranquility here, instead of the hustle and bustle of big city living."

Grimes' wife, Gussie, has no trouble keeping busy. She has organized sewing classes for Papago women. When the school is short a teacher, she fills in. Occasionally she cooks for the two priests at the mission. When the mission has visitors, she is unofficial hostess and serves them meals in her home.

Grimes is an ex-Marine who served in the Nicaraguan rebellion in 1927. Later he became a policeman.

Why did he decide he should devote his life to service to Roman Catholic missions?

"That's hard to put into words," he said. "My wife and I decided we should give our time and efforts to the furtherance of God's work. There is a satisfaction in doing for others that you don't get in trying to make a dollar for yourself."

He and his wife, and their children, David, 9, and Cindy, 5, will be in Australia for two or three years.

FROM MRS. EARLE F. McNEIL, the former Genevieve Martinelli, I received a delightful note thanking me for the article I had written about her brother, Judge Jordan Martinelli. She wrote she and her husband have moved to San Francisco from Novato where they sold their home. Genevieve said her husband found that daily commuting to San Francisco from Novato during the peak rush hours was not easy. Hence the move across the bay. However, Genevieve hopes that when her husband retires from the Standard Oil Company they can return to Marin where she was born.

Too Much Oil And Polish Can Ruin Good Furniture

CHICAGO (UPI)—Too much wax, oil and polish can do as much to dim the beauty of furniture finishes as lack of care. the American Walnut Manufacturers Association says.

After a survey of leading furniture finish manufacturers, the association recommended these steps in care;

—Wash furniture once or twice with mild soap and water. Excessive water can be harmful so the cloth should be wrung out. Wipe all surfaces with a clean damp cloth, then rub dry.

This soap and water treatment is recognized as the best means of cleaning wood furniture. It removes food and candy smears and many other types of soil not usually affected by the application of another coat of oil, polish or wax, the association said.

—A good paste wax should follow the washing, say most authorities on finishes. The paste wax may involve more work in polishing but the result justifies the effort, they say.

—Some furniture items, or furniture parts, which are subjected to heavy use may require more frequent cleaning and waxing. These include chairs, occasional tables, dining tables and the wood parts of upholstered furniture.

—For low luster or oil-type finishes where a gloss is not desired, clean only with soap and water. These finishes are part of the wood, and are surprisingly durable without wax.

If some waxing is preferred, a liquid especially formulated for these finishes is available.

—Authentic boiled oil finishes are generally identified as such and should be treated only with an occasional application of oil. Instructions are supplied by the furniture manufacturer.

—If wax has been put on accidentally, it must be removed before more oil is applied.

Furniture oils or oil base polishes which produce a shine through a surface oil residue are not recommended because they collect dust and may damage the furniture.

Giants 1958 Rebuilding Is Paying Off Big Dividends

CONNOLLY

It was just about this time last year when Giant horse-traders, and other pretenders, were offering all sorts of suggestions to owner Horace Stoneham. One deal that had the blessing of those close to the throne involved trading Willie McCovey and Chuck Hiller for Julian Javier of the Cardinals.

Chub Feeney, vice president of the Giants, and Manager Alvin Dark connived this idea but when handed to Stoneham, he wouldn't sit still for it. He must have made it pretty plain because after the turn down, skipper Dark quickly headed a committee of one to develop Hiller. For two solid weeks, at Phoenix, Dark personally supervised Hiller, teaching him all the tricks of the trade and then gleefully sat back and watched Chuck absorb his instructions and perform like a true second sacker.

WHEN THE spring training season ended, Dark announced Hiller as his first line keystoner. If you take it from there, you've got to admit Hiller made good. To boot, McCovey suddenly switched and became a very attentive prospective outfielder. He may not be as good as Babe Herman in his prime but given another year's trial he may outstrip the clown-prince of the once famous Dodger outfielder.

Hiller and McCovey have come a long ways since last spring. They've been given a juicy salary hike, deservedly so, and both are in camp today as recognized regulars — not trade bait.

It's a mighty nice feeling for a manager to feel so secure starting spring camp. But the reasons are interesting. This year the Giants have two first basemen in Orlando Cepeda and Willie McCovey; two fair to middlin' shortstops in Jose Pagan and Ferrell Bowman; two second sackers in Hiller and Joey Amalfitano; two third basemen in Jimmy Davenport and Harvey Kuenn; three catchers in Tom Haller, Ed Bailey and Jim Coker, the newcomer from Baltimore.

IN THE outfield it is pretty definitely established that Matty Alou is an understudy for Willie Mays. And he's got a good one even if Mays has five years ahead of him before hitting the toboggan.

Felipe Alou in rightfield and McCovey and Kuenn alternating in leftfield isn't too shaky an outlook. The bugaboo of injury is always prevalent but this group, taking into consideration past performances, are regarded as sturdy and dependable.

Any of the contending clubs in the National League like the Dodgers, the Cardinals and the Cincy Reds might be urged to copy the Giant tactics. It was a hard pill to swallow when the Giants began rebuilding in 1958 but today they are reaping the dividends.

THE FACT that Cepeda is supposed to have been overweight for six years, according to Manager Dark, doesn't detract from the argument that he is the most promising of all Giant regulars. In his press interview Dark claimed that hitting under .350 a season could be considered an off-year. That proves what the skipper thinks of Cepeda's future. Now if the management expects to talk the Baby Bull into a "cut" in salary for 1963, maybe they had better put the lid on the lips of manager Dark.

The late Rogers Hornsby left a great heritage Cepeda might well imitate. The Rajah made it a practice to get hits through the pitching box. Should it ever come to pass that Cepeda would emulate Hornsby in hitting through the box, I'd suggest that all opposing pitchers wear heavy shin guards or even masks.

REMOVING McCovey from the lineup against lefthand pitching was explained by manager Dark, who claims Willie had only three hits against southpaw pitching and those were off Lefty McKenzie of the Mets.

Another interesting yet contradictory thought was delivered by Dark to a query about the finish of Juan Marichal's stride. Dark remarked he didn't care how Marichal finished his pitching stride as long as he continued to win. A few moments later, the smart-cracking Dark said he wouldn't want Willie Mays to emulate Maury Wills because the injury hazard in running bases and sliding. It could be that pitching coach Larry Jansen is too busy to take the time to try and make Marichal finish up his stride like Don Drysdale. As it now stands, Marichal has a good chance of getting smacked on the whiskers every time he throws the ball. He doesn't step off the rubber —he falls off.

Mariners Nip Yuba 63-60

Have Strong Chance For League Title

The College of Marin basketballers were only one game out of first place in the Golden Valley Conference today after last night's victory over Yuba College, 63-60.

Conference-leading Shasta, with a 9-2 record, leads the Mariners (7-2) by one full game. If the Tars can win their next and final three games, they will be assured of at least a tie for the conference championship.

The Tars take on Sierra College tonight at 8 o'clock in the Redwood High School gymnasium.

Last night the Tars got the lead after 15 minutes of the first half had elapsed. That lead was never erased although the fighting Yubans never trailed by more than six points. Halftime score saw the Tars in front, 37-34.

Charlie Bullock led the Tar scoring with 18 points, although he hurt his ankle with three minutes left in the first half and had to sit out the rest of that half. He came back in the second half and added eight more points to his first half total of 10 to lead the Mariners. Next in scoring for the Tars was Dave Neumann and Mike Kavanagh, each with 14 digits.

Randy Petrini led the Tars in the rebounding department with 10 and Kavanagh pulled down seven.

The shooting percentages were almost equal as the Tars hit for 35 per cent and the cagers of Yuba shot for 34 per cent. College of Marin meshed 10 of 21 shots in the second half for a second half percentage of 48.

It's Win Or Retire For Gene Tonight

By HAL WOOD

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Gene Fullmer, the Mormon mauler, attempts to capture the world welterweight boxing crown tonight for the third time when he tangles with champion Dick Tiger in a scheduled 15-rounder at the Convention Center.

The oddsmakers have listed Tiger, a 33-year-old Nigerian, as a 3½ to 1 favorite to successfully defend the title he won only five months ago from Fullmer.

It will be Tiger's first title defense—and it may be the last bout of an illustrious career for Fullmer if he loses.

"I will retire from boxing if I fail to win this one," said gentleman Gene, who has saved his money, and among other things, is a member of the board of directors in a Utah bank.

The bout will be nationally televised (ABC) starting at 7 p.m. PST.

Each fighter will receive 30 per cent of the gate and television receipts, which will run, between them, to about $200,000. So the evening's work will be worth in the neighborhood of $60,000 to each man.

Off their last battle in San Francisco, Fullmer has no chance. He was bulled about the ring and slugged unmercifully for the full 15 rounds. It wasn't even close.

But Marv Jensen, manager of the 31-year-old Fullmer, said Gene was weakened by an attack of dysentary for that one.

Fullmer generally has been considered one of the strongest men in boxing today. But he was no match for the brute strength of Tiger, who has an unspectacular 41-12-2 record. He has 21 knockouts. Both battlers completed their training Thursday in tip-top shape after more than 100 rounds of conditioning.

NEW STRATEGY

Fullmer and Jensen indicated they had a new strategy worked out that will win back the crown. Fullmer who is 55-5-2, won the NBA title from Sugar Ray Robinson, lost it back to the same man; then won it again when he trounced Carmen Basillio for the title which had been declared vacant.

But Tiger is ready.

"I don't plan to do anything differently," said the former Nigerian delivery boy. "But I'm the champion this time and he'll have to come after me. And I love to fight a boy who is coming in." The two sluggers, built along the same lines, easily passed physical examinations of the Nevada State Athletic Commission yesterday.

Scoring for the bout is on a five-point must system, with the three knockdown limits waived. Eight-ounce gloves will be used.

SPRING TRAINING

15 Hurlers Start In Giants' Camp

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP)—Jack Fisher and his slip pitch, and Billy Hoeft, a lot bigger left-hander than Manager Alvin Dark expected, drew the greatest opening day attention as 21 San Francisco Giants began spring training yesterday.

Fifteen pitchers, three catchers and three players along for a few days extra work reported for the National League champions' first outing of the year.

Fisher and Hoeft, who came to the Giants from Baltimore in a major winter trade, threw five minutes of batting practice each along with the other moundsmen.

Fisher tried to show some of the Giants how his slip pitch works. His mates remained puzzled after five minutes of dissertation and demonstration, and Fisher finally laughed, "Half the time I throw it I don't even know how I do it or what it does, so we're all even."

Dark, upon seeing the 6-foot-2, 210-pound Hoeft, remarked, "Somehow I thought he'd be just a little bigger than Billy Pierce."

Fisher received one indirect compliment when Dark noticed that "nobody is overweight. Nobody looks sloppy."

The young hurler has been told frequently by the Baltimore management that he was too heavy, but he reported to the Giants at about 210, down 12 pounds from his weight part of last year.

Three pitchers were missing: Jack Sanford and Juan Marichal, who still want more money, and Bob Bolin, who won't get out of the Army for another month or two.

Catchers Tom Haller, Jim Coker and Bob Barton were on hand along with infielders Jerry Robinson and Joe Amalfitano, and left fielder Willie McCovey.

Robinson, who was with the Giants for a few weeks at the end of 1962, hit the only home run of the day. He has a fair chance to make the team in the spot of pinch-hitter Bob Nieman, who will play this year in Japan. His 36 homers at El Paso led the Texas League last year.

Yesterday's other pitchers were Pierce, Don Larsen, Jim Duffalo, Garylord Perry, Jerry Thomas, Bob Garibaldi, Ron Herbel, Dan Rivas, Dick Holden, Matt Gayeski, Al Stanek, Bob Bishop and John Pregenzer.

Rivas, Bishop, Gayeski and Pregenzer threw particularly hard — probably aware they'll have to show good stuff quickly to have a chance to stick with the Giants.

Knicks Drop Warriors In NBA Action

CHICAGO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors, in the midst of a road trip that could cost them the last playoff spot in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn., arrived here for tonight's clash with the Chicago Zephyrs.

After a Thursday loss to Boston in the Cow Palace, the Warriors hopped clear across the continent for a contest against New York last night.

The Warriors showed their travel-weariness in the final quarter when they fell apart, lost the lead and dropped the game, 106-93. The defeat left San Francisco 1½ games behind third-place Detroit.

At one point in the fatal fourth period, the winning Knicks piled up 23 points to 2 for the Warriors. During the splurge, San Francisco's rookie coach, Bob Feerick was thrown out of the game. He raced onto the court when the Knicks began to take the ball away from Wilt Chamberlain in the pivot.

Feerick claimed the Knicks were fouling his star center, who led scorers with 37 points.

National AAU Indoor Track Meet Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — The burning question of just how high is up in the pole vault may be answered tonight when world record holder Pentti Nikula of Finland takes on four other 16-footers in the highlight of the National AAU indoor track and field championships in Madison Square Garden.

But if Nikula falters any of a half-dozen other stars could steal the spotlight.

They include Jim Beatty, who set the indoor record of 3:58.6 for the mile just a week ago; Valery Brumel of Russia, out to make amends for his only high jump loss to John Thomas two weeks ago; Gary Gubner of New York University, who hopes to improve on his 64-11¾ shot put record; Igor Ter-Ovanesyan of Russia, who set the indoor broad jump record of 26-10 three weeks ago; Lt. Jack Yerman of the U.S. Army, who is after the 600 record of 1:09.3, and Bill Crothers of the University of Toronto who has been planning an assault on the 2:06 1,000-yard record of Peter Snell.

17-FOOT MARK

Nikula, who soared 16-8¾ three weeks ago in Finland—more than five inches better than any other vaulter in history—predicts he'll go at least 16-6 and maybe hit the magic 17-foot mark.

Dave Tork of West Virginia, Rolando Cruz of Villanova, John Belitza of Maryland and Ron Morris of the Southern California Striders, 16-footers all, will argue it out with Nikula.

Beatty's main competition in the mile probably will come from his Los Angeles Track Club teammate, Jim Grelle. If Beatty is pushed he is capable of breaking the record. If he is all alone he'll probably wind up around the 4-minute mark.

HIGH JUMP

Brumel pushed his indoor high jump record to 7-4 in the Millrose meet, but the next time he met Thomas in Los Angeles, the Boston University senior whipped him for the first time in eight meetings.

Gubner has been warming up all season for a record shot and he figures to go over 65 feet. Tex-Ovanesyan tangles with Ralph Boston of Los Angeles again after beating the American in their last two meetings. Boston, however, has not been in top form. Yerman has won six straight this winter, including a 1:09.8—just a half second off George Kerr's 600 record—in Boston. Crothers, also undefeated this year, has a 2:08.1 to his credit in the 1,000.

WITHDRAWS

Bruce Kidd, the University of Toronto's remarkable 19-year-old distance runner, has withdrawn from the meet because of a blistered heel, so the 3-mile could go to either Marcel Bernard of France or Max Truex of the Los Angeles Track Club.

Other favorites include Hayes Jones of Michigan in the 60-yard hurdles; Paul Drayton of Philadelphia in the 60-yard dash and Ron Zinn of the U.S. Army, West Point, N.Y.

Rice Student Expelled For Bribe Charge

HOUSTON (AP) — The Southwest Conference, rocked last year by an investigation of alleged game fixing by basketball officials was jarred again today with the report that a Rice University student had been expelled for offering two players a bribe to shave points.

Two Rice basketball players, Herb Steinkamp and Dick Cramer reported the student tried to bribe them to hold the margin down to less than 14 points in the game with Baylor Tuesday night.

The university issued a brief statement last night that "a student has been dismissed from Rice University. He attempted to bribe two basketball players into shaving the score on the Baylor game. This was reported immediately by the players to Rice authorities."

Johnny Frankie, Rice basketball coach, said the matter has been referred to the FBI.

Athletic Director Jess Neely said "as far as I know they (the players) were approached Feb. 14 and they reported the bribe attempts to Frankie the next day." That was the day before Rice's game in Dallas with Southern Methodist last Saturday.

Frankie said the players were told:

"The point shaving in the Baylor game depended on whether we won at Dallas. If we beat SMU by 15 to 18 points, then we'd be a big favorite against Baylor here.

"He said he'd bet $40,000 and give my guards $500 apiece to slow down the Baylor game and win by less than 14 points," Frankie said.

Rice lost the SMU game at Dallas, 86-79, and beat Baylor, 74-70.

Seals Only One Point Out Of Division Lead

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The San Francisco Seals are only a single point out of first place in the Western Hockey League's Southern Division, thanks to some last-minute fireworks on the part of the Edmonton Flyers.

The Flyers tallied twice in the final 34 seconds last night and knocked off division-leading Portland 4-2, while the Seals dropped Los Angeles, 6-4, before a record crowd at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

Edmonton has been handling Portland with a notable absence of awe. Wednesday night the Flyers battled the Buckaroos to a 4-4 tie.

The Seals are not scheduled tonight, and thus lose a chance to take over the top spot. Portland is at Calgary, while Vancouver journeys to Los Angeles and Seattle visits Spokane.

A crowd of 10,669, the largest to see a hockey game at the Cow Palace, watched the Seals skate to their sixth win in 10 meetings with rival Los Angeles.

The big men for San Francisco were wingman Orland Kurtenbach and defenseman Jean Marc Picard. Kurtenbach scored twice and Picard harried the Blade attackers all night. Bob Sollinger scored two for the Blades.

Edmonton's Sid Finney broke a 2-2 tie with 34 seconds remaining at Edmonton to put the Flyers ahead, 3-2. Ray Kinasewich added another goal after the Buckaroos pulled Don Head out of the nets.

Portland's Gordy Fashioway scored his 545th goal in professional hockey, surpassing the National Hockey League total of Maurice (The Rocket) Richard. Only Detroit's Gordie Howe, with 553, has scored more.

Angels Turn To Electronics For Aid In Training

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels are going to try to improve their hitting and pitching form with an electronic age adaptation of Robert Burns:

"O wad some power the giftie gie us
"To see oursels as others see us."

The American League club will use a special closed-circuit videotape recording system, developed by Ampex Corp., at the Angels' Palm Springs training camp.

"We are interested in seeing how players respond to television pictures of themselves played back immediately after they are taken," said Manager Bill Rigney.

"We think videotape recording has intriguing possibilities for analyzing hitting or pitching form and perhaps other aspects of the game. Film has been used before but with videotape we will be able to see the picture right away."

HAFB '5' Keeps It's Cage Title

EVERETT, Wash. (UPI)—Hamilton Air Force Base successfully defended its National Air Defense Command basketball title at Paine Field here by defeating a scrappy team from Kincheloe AFB, Mich., 87-65 yesterday.

The leading scorers for the winners, who connected on 42 per cent of its field goal attempts, was McKinley Reynolds of Montgomery, Ala., with 22 points while little 5 foot, 7-inch Lawrence McKee from Dayton, Ohio, dropped in 20 points for the Kincheloe squad.

Reynolds won the tourney's outstanding player trophy and a sportsmanship plaque was awarded to the entire Sioux City, Iowa Air Force Base team which was eliminated earlier in the double elimination meet.

This marks the third straight year HAFB has earned the right to represent the Air Defense Command in the Air Force Worldwide Basketball Championships which begins this year at Vandenberg AFB, on March 4.

Tar Baseball Season Nears

College of Marin baseballers have been practicing on tennis courts, in gymnasiums and even on the lawn in front of the college library because of no baseball field of its own, but they'll be ready when the season opens, promises coach Ed Grimm.

The Tar baseball squad started practice Feb. 4 but because of construction of the new physical education facilities at the Kentfield campus the athletes have been working out anywhere possible. The Tars have been using Albert Field in San Rafael and will also use San Anselmo's Memorial Field when weather permits.

Grimm's team has 24 members, including five returning lettermen. Returning from last year's team are hurlers Russ Honeyman and Charles Johnson, outfielder Mike Walsh, second baseman John Taylor and first baseman Jim Lucas.

Walsh was selected to the second team All-Golden Valley Conference team last season as an outfielder.

Assisting Grimm with the coaching chores will be Jim Buckley who will handle the pitchers and catchers. Infield coach will be Jerry Ard who was an All-Conference shortstop last season with the Tars. He's now a student coach.

Grimm expects another addition to the Tar roster in Bill Finn, a returning letterman pitcher from last year's crop. Former Marin stars Ron Blum and Ron Cole are helping out with the coaching, but will have to leave soon for spring training as both have signed with professional clubs, Blum with the Chicago Cubs and Cole with the Houston Colt 45s.

The Mariners will open their season March 4 against the Contra Costa Comets at San Pablo.

"We're looking forward to big things this year from our squad," said Grimm. He pointed out the battle for the championship in the Golden Valley Conference will be tighter this year because of the transfer of American River Junior College to the Valley Conference.

After all, in the last five years the baseballers of American River J.C. have waltzed off with the championship title of the GVC.

With the transfer of American River J.C., Grimm feels the conference will be fought between Marin, Shasta, Yuba and Santa Rosa. But, he adds, Siskiyou and Sierra shouldn't be counted out of the bread-winning list.

Grimm figures a 9-3 conference record should be good enough to win the conference. Last year College of Marin finished the season with a 6-6 league record and an overall mark of 10-13.

The present 24-man roster for the Tars, by high school:

Drake—Bob Silvey and Russ Honeyman, pitchers; Tony Damato, outfielder.

Marin Catholic—Jerry Smith, shortstop; Tom Basile, pitcher; and Ken Bowerman, outfielder.

Novato—Harry Cassidy, first baseman; Ron Grayson, pitcher.

Redwood—Mike Walsh, outfielder; Bob Jordons, third baseman; John Taylor and Bob Schoville, second basemen.

San Rafael—Dennis Becker, outfielder; Ron Stirling, first baseman; Ron Fitts third baseman; and Ralph Brookman and Ken Becker, pitchers.

Tamalpais — Bob Melbern, shortstop; Charles Johnson, pitcher; Bill Buffalow, catcher; Jim Lucas, first baseman; and Dave Perlis, outfielder.

Others—Kennedy Kiley and Bob Timmel, pitchers.

Indian Cagers Nip UCLA In Overtime

STANFORD (UPI) — Stanford University strengthened its hold on first place in the Big Six basketball race last night with a 73-69 overtime win over UCLA.

Center Tom Dose of Stanford scored two freethrows as time ran out to assure the Indians of the win. The points were his 34th and 35th of the game.

It was Dose who hit two baskets early in the overtime to give Stanford a 69-64 lead. But Walt Hazzard of UCLA came back to score four points himself to pull the Bruins to within one point of Stanford with 30 seconds to play.

Don Clemetson of Stanford made three free throws to boost the lead to 71-67 with 23 seconds to play. Then Hazzard scored again. Dose was fouled just before the final buzzer, costing UCLA any chance of making a comeback.

Stanford appeared to have the game won in regulation play but Gail Goodrich stole a pass under the Stanford basket and scored to make the count 58-57 for Stanford with 12 seconds to play. Goodrich was fouled and made his free throw to tie the game and force the overtime.

The win was the sixth in nine conference games for Stanford.

He lived in Palo Alto where he owned a sign company that he had started in his student days.

Young Kentfield Man Named As Clausen's Field Representative

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

A Kentfield man has been named field representative for Rep. Don H. Clausen and is already on the job. He is Raymond E. Paschke, 29, who with his wife moved from their former home in Larkspur to 254 Kent Avenue about six months ago. Since then, in fact just five weeks ago, they had twins, Kirsten (girl) and Craig (boy).

Paschke was selected from among 10 candidates interviewed. One of the candidates even left the Young Republicans' convention at Fresno last weekend in order to come up here for the interview.

The new field representative, who succeeds Bill Grader, is no stranger to political procedures. At the start of the 1960 legislative session, Paschke became administrative aide to Assemblyman John Busterud, the Republican caucus chairman in Sacramento. He served until Busterud decided to resign and run for state treasurer. Paschke helped him in that unsuccessful campaign.

The official district office will continue to remain in Santa Rosa, but for the present, Paschke and family will live in Marin.

THREE MARINITES have been named by Gov. Edmund G. Brown on a seven-man committee to create a state memorial for Dag Hammerskjold, former United Nations secretary general, from a Northern California redwood grove.

John K. Robinson of Mill Valley, George L. Collins of Ross and Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands, will serve on the committee headed by Major Gen. Frank Stoner of Saratoga. Newton B. Drury of Berkeley, Mrs. Doris Leonard of San Francisco (both of whom might be considered Marinites) and Mrs. Suzanne H. Lilienthal of San Francisco, make up the rest of the committee.

The committee was appointed at the request of the Save The Redwoods League after the United Nations and the Dag Hammarskjold Memorial Foundation agreed a redwood grove would make a suitable memorial to the "man of peace who so often visited these great forests and compared them with the patience required of man in establishing peace among men."

Governor Brown suggested a 900 acre stand of redwoods known as the Pepperwood Grove, the last great grove on Highway 101 south of Eureka and just north of the Avenue of the Giants near Scotia. He said it is owned by the Pacific Lumber Company which has preserved it for years with the hope it might someday become part of the state parks system.

TWO MARIN MEN have been elected to office in the Bay Area's Republican Alliance. Henry Grandin, Jr., Ross real estate developer, was elected a vice president, and Clarence O. Amonette, Jr., also of Ross, was named treasurer. He heads Amonette and Co., Investments, in San Francisco.

OLD PIANO YIELDS TREASURE

A misplaced $9,090 was found in a discarded piano in Lafayette, Indiana, not long ago.

The cumbersome old upright was being dismantled to see if it was worth reconditioning. Two workers were about to give up when they found some parcels inside the musty piano.

'Someone left a stale sandwich," said one man as he picked up the dusty but neatly wrapped package.

Upon opening it, out fell a stack of bills. Taking another look, he discovered more packages. Altogether they yielded $9,090 in currency, plus some rare coins and jewelry.

When the former owner of the piano, a widower, was contacted he was jubilant. He said his late wife had hidden their life savings somewhere, but he had never been able to find it.

Treasures are frequently found in the most unexpected places. Be ever on the lookout, in a particular way, for those treasures that not only bring you joy in this life but also endure for eternity.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Utilities Could Go Underground

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

It was with a good deal of interest that I read of the regrettable action by the San Rafael City Council in allowing the P.G.&E. to run their utility line overhead, down the center of Third Street.

I agree with Councilmen Bud Baar and Fred Jensen when they say "we're going back 100 years," with one small exception. In my opinion it's not a matter of GOING back, we've never been any place else but back when it came to utility poles and their offensive appearance on the landscape.

In the 1920s and 1930s we were producing cars that had a trunk strapped on the rear on a frame. We also had utility poles. Today the trunks are gone, having been designed into the car body, perhaps at more cost, but no one would want it otherwise. What improvements took place in the utility pole department? They are the same as they were in 1920, but only more numerous.

The analogy may be poor, but the message is simply this: we're living in 1963 but we are standing still for a horse and buggy treatment on utility service.

For those who would say how bad is this blight of power poles, I might suggest as an example, a close look at the approximately 30 poles which occupy both sides of the street on Magnolia in Larkpur—starting from the Woodlark Apartments and running approximately three blocks to the Kent Woodlands entrance, many of them occurring in the middle of the asphalted parking and driving areas where they become a hazard as well as an eyesore. (This particular strip could be extremely attractive if the local merchants campaigned to get those poles out and shade trees in.)

For those who would say, how nice can it be, I would suggest a ride through such subdivisions as Marin Bay, the Reedlands in Tiburon and Fairhills in San Rafael. To see how it can be handled in a small development, see "Parkview Terrace," just being completed in Corte Madera.

Wake up, P.G.&E. and A. T.&T.! You could be a pioneer in the field of aesthetic beauty as well as utilities. Undertake to educate the people to their financial involvement in underground utilities. I'm sure they would find it not half as odious as the appearance of your unsightly poles and utility lines. It's being done elsewhere; why not here?

And brickbats to those of you in San Rafael who had a chance to stand with Councilmen Baar and Jensen in the name of civic beauty — but didn't!

Follow Majority To Keep In Business

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I would like to take issue with your editorial of Feb. 20 regarding proposed legislation on Sunday closing.

As a small retailer, one of millions in our country, the large chain and discount operators are our toughest competition. However, regardless of who initiates this legislation or why, the small retailer has the most at stake in this issue.

To keep in business we must follow the majority in the practice of opening and closing our stores. And this trend in California toward remaining open every night and Sunday is a vicious thing for us. It simply means the small owner will have to work longer and longer hours.

I am enclosing copy of a letter I wrote to both our legislators in Sacramento.

Bill Saroyan, author of "Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze" fame, returned one day in triumph after he had made a fortune, to the San Francisco grocery store where he had clerked briefly in his youth. Everybody crowded round to hear the famous man give his views on life and love. Later the proprietor of the grocery store was asked, "What was the most important thing Saroyan said?" The proprietor answered testily, "He didn't say anything important. All he did was eat up my fruit."

Definitely It's Spring When Grass Grows On Probation Officer's Car

It's definitely spring.

There's evidence all around us, but the one that was most convincing was a neat row of grass growing along the rear bumper of a probation officer's car. It had sprouted about two inches high from a sliver of dirt that had gathered in a crevice along the bumper. Better mow it before it covers up the license plate.

Speaking of probation officers, the top man in that department is Walter Busher, chief probation officer! not "Prohibition Officer," as appeared in a recent edition of the I-J.

THE ANTI-DIGIT Dialing League is putting up a pretty good fight to restore letter dialing, but sometimes it's quite discouraging.

For example, take this bit of dialogue that occurred over the telephone the other day:

Karl Barron, radio announcer for KTIM called the Anti-Digit Dialing League conference headquarters and asked for Dr. Jack Block.

Bonnie Burgon, league secretary: "He's busy in the conference now. I'll have him call you. What's your number?"

Barron: "456- . . ."

Bonnie: "Come now!"

ANOTHER RADIO announcer, Bill Thompson, may be thinking of running for the Larkspur school board in April.

At least, his backers are reported to be urging him on.

IF YOU HAVE any wage disputes, you don't always have to go into San Francisco to get satisfaction.

They've set up hearings every Friday at the San Rafael City Hall, where a Deputy Labor Commissioner holds court from 10 a.m.

You walk in warily, wondering what type of staid old gentleman is going to be presiding. But you'll never find him. Sitting up front is an attractive blonde, looking more like a secretary than a deputy labor commissioner. She is Miss Marie Melrose of Tamalpais Valley.

But don't let appearances fool you. She's sharp as a tack when it comes to employer-employee disputes and wage laws.

She subpenas records, lays down the law, and makes decisions right off the "bench."

FOR EXAMPLE, you don't have to give any notice before quitting a job. If you're fired, you must be paid off the same day. If you quit, you can be paid within three days.

But don't get too cocky because the boss doesn't have to give you vacation with pay if he doesn't want to, etc.

DEBT CEILING BATTLE

Solons Sensitive To Taxes And Spending

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—The Kennedy administration's tax woes and spending worries will be compounded soon when Congress takes up the President's request to continue the national debt limit at its current level.

Conservative congressmen of both parties are expected to use the debt limit issue as an opportunity to criticize the President's proposed tax reform program and spending plans for the coming year. If the last few years are any indication, the debate this year should be one of the noisiest in Congress' first six months.

The debt limit is the legally established point beyond which the U. S. Treasury cannot issue securities to obtain spending money. Currently, that limit is $308 billion but it is scheduled to drop to $305 billion on April 1 and continue declining to $285 billion on July 1.

GOVERNMENT officials who have to handle the debt say that the figure must be kept at $308 billion for the rest of fiscal 1962 which ends June 30. The reason: the government's existing debt and planned spending programs make it impossible to reduce the debt to $285 by the end of June. They estimate a debt of about $303.5 billion by then and a $315.6 billion deficit by June 30, 1964.

Accordingly, President Kennedy has requested an extension of the $308 billion figure. For fiscal 1964, he is expected to ask that it be raised. Both proposals will set off fireworks. Many congressmen, generally Repulicans and conservative Democrats, say they have had their fill of ever-increasing government spending and budget deficits. They are prepared to argue vigorously against a debt limit increase.

THEIR OPPOSITION will be nothing new; they have made similar protests before. In 1962 they lost only after a strong fight. The difference is that this year Congress is hypersensitive to taxes and spending.

Two issues have caused this sensitivity: (1) the President's sweeping tax reduction and reform program which would cost the government $10.3 billion in lost revenues when in full effect, and (2) the administration's fiscal 1964 budget which would be $11.9 billion in the red if Congress approves the President's spending program.

The debate over the lebt limit affords an excellent opportunity to publicize federal spending, deficit financing and even the new tax program.

Congressmen who oppose extension of the current debt limit argue that a lower ceiling will force the administration to cut back spending.

Treasury officials, however, don't believe that the debt limit is at all effective in halting spending. They point out that expenses have been rising for the last 30 years, even during a Republican administration requests, but adds many items of its own. In approving expenditures, the debt limit is seldom, if ever, taken into account.

AND WHATEVER Congress decides to spend, the Treasury must find funds to cover. If tax revenues are not adequate, then it must resort to deficit financing if it does not repudiate some debts.

If the debt limit prevents the Treasury from borrowing money with its own securities it can, to an extent, obtain money through the sale of securities by other government agencies, such as the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Federal National Mortgage Assn. But interest rates to these agencies always are higher and thus add to the cost of managing the debt.

Treasury officials also claim that if obligations are at or near the debt ceiling, they have no flexibility to take advantage of favorable market conditions or meet the unexpected emergency needs of a federal agency.

Suggestions of removing the debt limit entirely have been made from time-to-time. There is little chance that this will occur as long as the debt keeps rising and the debt limit issue offers conservatives a chance to publicize its rise.

Will Congress Reform? It All Depends On Your View

One Senator Says Seniority System Should Be Killed

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lately our lawmakers have hardly been able to find their press clippings and letters from home for the deluge of printed matter to the effect that Congress is about to collapse.

A national magazine says in a headline that "our legislators are frittering away their power and shirking their duty."

A political scientist is doing fine with a $5.95 book entitled, "The Deadlock of Democracy." It says approximately that Congress has slid off the back of the sleigh.

Every columnist with any kind of respectable ivory tower at all has been moaning that the lawmakers have lost touch with the people, among other offenses.

It is widely claimed that a bunch of old men have clamped a cold dead hand on the throttle of progress, and—to quote an article in the Saturday Evening Post—something must be done in a hurry to "save Congress from collapse."

Well, what about it? Is Congress about to reform?

Yes, it fully intends to raise its own pay, maybe before it adjourns for the year. And it may even break with the past and declare itself an official late-summer vacation, so the younger members can get to the mountains or beach with the kiddies.

Anything much beyond that? Don't be silly.

SEN. JOSEPH S. CLARK
Hits seniority system

Then is the outlook for democracy hopeless?

Before the first Congress was well organized critics claimed it had failed. They said that President George Washington was really running things, and that Congress had defaulted its powers.

In 1805 a visiting Englishman wrote home that imagination in Congress was dead; that the members dressed and acted like bums.

An official history of the House records that President Thomas Jefferson in his time was viewed as a dictator. It was said that party members in Congress were simply taking their orders from him.

The fact is, Congress always has been fair game for assault by everybody from crackerbarrel philosophers to newspaper cartoonists. The general picture, according to George Galloway, who wrote the official House history, has been of a body "composed of middle-aged windbags with open mouths, 10-gallon Texas hats, and flowing coattails."

Sartorially, the image may have changed somewhat recently, but the criticism continues unaltered. Lately even some members of Congress have gotten into the act. They have dropped in the hoppers, to be promptly forgotten, bills to cure an astonishing variety of ailments, real or presumed.

They proposed everything from putting the House on live television to reading aloud the Declaration of Independence each Fourth of July. Some members want to make the Congressional Record an honest account of what happens, surely a laudable aim. Republicans are in with bills to let them name 40 per cent of the staffs of committee.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) has proposed—hold onto your gavel—that the Senate abolish its seniority system, put committee chairmanships up for grabs every two years, and—in any event—throw out any chairman who survives to be 70.

The seniority system, by which the member of the majority party who has been around longest automatically claims the top committee prize and all the power that goes along with it, is in fact a main target of much of the current complaint.

At a recent "school" for freshman House members a distinguished journalist who was part of the faculty said the new members might as well face it; the seniority system, as a means for picking committee chairmen, had to go.

As to what might be put in its place, however, he said, "that's for you to decide."

Well, Congress decided that question way back, and nobody has since suggested an alternative that appears to most members to hold out any promise of producing uniformly better results.

Clark says let the committee members hold a secret ballot at the start of each Congress. Would that result in turning out, say, Conservative Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) as chairman of the finance committee, or Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) as House armed services chairman?

Of course not. There probably would not be a vote cast against either of these two beloved elder statesmen.

Clark's other proposal — to bar the gavel to men over 70—of course would get both Byrd and Vinson, and many another chairman as well. But most members aren't at all sure their successors, on the average, would necessarily be an improvement.

One thing eating many would-be reformers is that the lawmakers have failed to pass, and show no sign of passing, certain legislation which the reformers think ought to be passed.

School aid and medicare for the aged are the two bills most often mentioned.

It apparently is widely believed that Chairman Howard W. Smith, (D-Va.) of the House Rules Committee, stands personally in the path of school bills and that one try after another in this field has failed, thanks only to him.

Let's say that Judge Smith has done his part, at the very least. But the fact is the Congress itself has not shown any red hot enthusiasm for a program of general school aid. The House a couple of times has had up the question and voted against it. Last year, House and Senate passed differing bills and could not agree on a compromise.

Has Congress and some of its committees lost touch with the public? Not necessarily. Many members say the fact is that the public has not as yet manifested real demands for many proposals.

On an average, the House probably is a little more conservative than the average voter. The Senate likely is a little more liberal. But on past performance, Congress usually reflects pretty well the state of public opinion. If and when an overwhelming demand appears for school aid and medicare, the chances are that Congress will see its way clear to enact them.

Brown's Tax Plan Appears Doomed

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) —Gov. Edmund G. Brown's proposal to withhold state personal income tax from wages, salaries and other earnings of Californians appeared doomed to defeat today unless quite a few senators change their minds.

A poll of the senate revenue and taxation committee, which would have to handle the withholding tax bill if it passes the assembly, showed only two votes in favor. The Capitol News Service polled 10 of the 11 members of the committee.

There were six outright noes —and votes that sounded like they would not be subject to change. Two senators put themselves on the undecided list but raised some conditions that the administration might find hard to meet.

Brown and his financial chief, Hale Champion, director of finance, proposed the withholding tax and requirement of current payment of income taxes by firms and non-wage persons as a general tax form but as a specific source of extra revenues to help balance the 1963-64 budget.

Brown has admitted that, without the withholding tax enactment, new taxes could be needed to balance the budget.

Briefly, the plan, as expected to be introduced in a bill by Assemblyman Nicholos C. Petris (D-Oakland) would require withholding from all single persons who would pay more than $5 a year (a minimum of 20 cents a week), all married couples who would pay $10 or more a year, with all other persons who would owe more than $40 in taxes not withheld required to make installment payments.

The new procedure would take effect July 1, 1964, with 25 per cent of 1964 taxes forgiven. In other words, taxpayers would be required to pay 1963 income taxes on April 15, 1964, as usual. As of July 1, 1964, withholding would commence. But taxpayers would be assessed only half of the taxes due for the first six months of the year, before withholding took effect.

Some states, in enacting a withholding tax, have forgiven a whole year's taxes. However, Brown said this was not possible in California as the accelerated tax payments were required in this year.

The survey of the senate revenue and taxation committee by CNS showed varied reasons for opposition to the measure While several senators replied flatly that they would vote against a withholding tax in any form, others gave reasons.

"This won't get the people they want anyway," said one senator. "The withholding is aimed at those who now escape taxes because they move during the year or otherwise don't pay. But they probably don't earn enough that they'd have to pay much in taxes."

One of the "yes" votes on the bill was just as emphatic in his support of it because he felt it would prevent escapement of tax payments.

One senator who said he opposes the bill admitted there would be "some benefits, but not enough." Another said he was opposed to the measure and would vote against it "unless somebody changes my mind."

The two members of the Revenue and Taxation committee who were undecided at this time indicated they would take a lot of convincing before they voted for the bill. One said he could approve the bill only if it provided for a full year's tax forgiveness. He said he would vote for no measure that required double taxes for any part of a year.

Brown has said most recently that the 25 per cent forgiveness is as far as he can go.

The other undecided senator indicated he might be convinced to vote for the measure but it would do some doing.

"I don't thing the problem in collecting the taxes are as great as some say they are," he said. "On the other hand, I think the benefits from the withholding tax are much less than some say they are too."

The senate committee was polled by CNS because there was every reason to believe a withholding tax measure introduced in the assembly would clear that house. The lower house has a 52-28 Democratic edge and the administration and top leadership in the assembly are expected to have fairly firm control.

Iraq Is No Longer The Garden Of Eden

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeature Writer

In the trite but true department, Africa has its winds of change, the Middle East its shifting sands. Together they can blow up a storm of political confusion.

The latest example is Iraq, a key nation of the Arab world. The coup d'etat there has brought another major shakeup of alignments. Yesterday's enemies have become today's friends and any one with any political or economic interest wonders just where he stands.

The Near East is a three way power struggle between Egypt's President Nasser, Russia and the West. Each periodic change of government sets up a flurry in Cairo, Moscow and Washington to determine who won. When the former Premier Kassem overthrew Iraq's King Faisal in 1958 it was interpreted as a move away from the West towards Cairo. Actually Russia was benefitting the most from Kassem's revolt before he was shot two weeks ago.

Now in power is his successor, President Abdul Salam Arif. He has made pro-Nasser statements. He has fought the Communists. So it would appear at first look that the West and Nasser's dream of Arab unity have been the beneficiaries.

Yet the realities of the Arab world may lean elsewhere. The Iraq insurgents are followers of the Ba'athist movement which believes in a form of Arab federation as well as radical social changes. This will make few friends in feudal Saudi Arabia. Nor should it be reassurin in Kuwait whose immense oil revenues have long been eyed by poorer, share-the-wealth mined Arab states.

And will Ba'athist Iran become a new power in the field to vie with Nasser for support of left wing elements in Jordan, Syria and Iran?

Syria has already made overtures for a federation with Iraq and this but a relatively brief span since Syria ended its partnership with Egypt in the United Arab Republic.

Will Baghdad become Cairo's brother? Or rival?

Any long range prediction of affairs in Iraq must be set against a long history of abrupt and violent change. It is an ancient land, and has known in its past the armies of Alexander the Great, Mohammed and Genghis Khan.

The Turks made it part of the Ottoman Empire in the 17th Century and it remained as such until 1916 when Sherif Hussein of Hijaz led a revolt against the crumbling Turk domain.

Iraq then became a League of Nations mandate under British control. In 1924 a constitutional monarchy was declared with Faisal I on the throne.

The following year Iraq signed a 75-year concession with the British dominated Iraq Petroleum Co. after oil had been found at Kirkuk (see map). American companies were given a 23.75 per cent share which they still hold.

Last year alone oil earned Iraq 266 million dollars in revenues.

During World War II a Nazi-inspired coup over-threw the monarchy but a British expedition marched to Iraq and restored it. After the war canny Premier Nuri Said, who had been leader of the revolt against the Ottomans years before, maintained an authoritarian control of the restless country. Long range plans to develop Iraq with its flow of oil money were just getting underway when Nuri Said and Faisal II were slain by the Kassem coup.

The Iraq Petroleum Co. continued to operate during Kassem's reign and the new government has implied that it will also tolerate the company. With Russia a growing competitor in the world's oil market, Iraq is faced with having to sell oil to the West or not at all.

Oil will be the arid nation's major resource for years to come. It is the Near East's fourth largest producer and has the reserves estimated at 12 billion barrels.

The irony of Iraq is that it must depend on oil for its existence when at one time was a lush agricultural area. Implacably, however, the desert took over, sering the land that legend has was the site of the Garden of Eden.

But that was long ago and Iraq has been anything but a garden since.

This Week In The World

Cold War Out Of Deep Freeze

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The cold war came out of the deep freeze this week.

First, Cuban MIG fighters fired on a U. S. shrimp boat which was drifting in international waters.

This was followed by a demand to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro by President John F. Kennedy for a prompt explanation. Kennedy also ordered the U. S. military to return the fire in any future aggression by Cuba.

Some congressmen thought firing back was not enough. They wanted U. S. planes to pursue the MIGs to Cuba.

Castro said his jets were only looking for stolen Cuban ships.

Then Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky warned that any attack on Cuba by the United States would result in thermonuclear retaliation against American cities.

Malinovsky also claimed Russia could destroy the United States without getting hurt itself. He said Soviet anti-missile missiles could prevent any U. S. projectile from reaching its target. On the other hand, Malinovsky said, the United States had no defense against Soviet missiles which he said were capable of carying 100-megaton warheads.

Seasoned diplomats felt that Russia would not take such a risk, not for the sake of Castro, who has become a pain in the neck to the Soviets and who is costing them too much money.

But these diplomats speculated that Malinovsky's threat reflected a hardening of the Soviet line toward the West.

In Geneva, Western negotiators also were having trouble with their Soviet counterparts. The issue was how many on-site inspections were necessary each year to police a ban against nuclear testing.

The Soviets said they would agree to no more than three and the West could take it or leave it. So Western delegates, who had insisted on eight to 10 inspections annually, shaved the number down to seven. But the Soviet delegation refused to change its position.

Around The World Around The Clock

Washington — President Kennedy again advised against having too many nuclear deterrents in Western Europe. This obviously was directed to France's President Charles de Gaulle who is pursuing an independent nuclear policy.

Benghazi, Libya — An earthquake was reported to have "practically leveled" the plateau town of Barce.

Washington — Kennedy asked congress for medical care for the aged based on Social Security. The request was pigeon-holed and action may not be taken until next year.

New York — Three unions endorsed President Kennedy's call for both sides in New York's long and costly newspaper strike to "submit their differences to independent determination." By "independent determination," the president meant a third power between mediation and compulsory arbitration.

Names That Made News During The Week

John F. Diefenbaker—The Canadian prime minister, now head of only a caretaker government, flew to London for consultations with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Canadian elections are set for April 8.

Romulo Betancourt — The President of Venezuela conferred with Kennedy at the White House. They issued a joint statement which indicated the United States would act, perhaps unilaterally, to prevent Communists from taking over in Venezuela.

Pope John XXIII — He granted an audience to Italian and foreign newsmen. The pope looked fit but he told the newsmen he thought his death might not be in the too-far-away future.

ADDED REVENUE

Brown Might Favor Cigarette Tax Collection Method Change

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — If Gov. Edmund G. Brown wants to add to the state's income, he may look with favor on the revival of a defeated measure changing the method of collecting state cigarette tax.

Of course, the measure must reach the governor's desk before he can give it any real and serious consideration, but the weight of his approval beforehand could be a potent factor in its passage in legislature.

A measure was introduced this week to eliminate the marking of each package of cigarettes sold in California to show a tax has been paid. A reporting method where large distributors would certify payments would be substituted.

A similar measure was defeated in state senate committees in 1961, but this year, added arguments will be presented on behalf of eliminating the costly method of using tax stamps, or imprints showing taxes have been paid.

In the course of abolishing the cumbersome and costly bethod of stamping or marking millions of cigarette packages, the state would profit by 2 million dollars, in that the allowance of two percent for marking, made to big distributors, would go to benefit the taxpayer.

Sparking passage bill will be the California Grocers Assn. which finds the marking job time-consuming and costly.

Only a few large distributors operate in California, and reportedly, the problem of tax escapment would not be worthy of much consideration compared to added revenues. Distributors would continue under the bill to be supervised by the state tax collecting agency.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Poor Idea To Rely On Your Luck, But Please, Please Don't Knock It

It's a poor idea to rely on luck, but don't despise it. Take advantage of whatever good fortune comes your way if you aim to be a successful bridge player.

Opening lead — ♣ J

When I slipped this hand into a recent lecture-duplicate not one declarer managed to make six hearts. They were all looking for some scientific way to make the slam instead of just accepting what fell into their laps.

FIRST TRICK

Each declarer won the first trick with the ace of clubs, drew a few rounds of trumps and then tried three rounds of diamonds. When the diamonds failed to break, they had to fall back on the spade finesse.

Since the spade finesse lost, our heroes were all down one. "Was it a good contract?" they wanted to know. "Or should we stop at game?"

"The slam was a very reasonable contract," I had to tell them. "What's more, it was ice cold."

REVEALING FALL

The correct play is to win the first club, draw two rounds of trumps, and cash the ace of diamonds.

When the ten of diamonds monds? Then nothing can be drops, South should plan to take advantage of a doubleton Q-10, J-10 or 10-9 diamonds in the East hand.

Declarer ruffs dummy's queen of clubs and leads a low diamond toward dummy. West must play low, and declarer finesses with dummy's eight of diamonds.

MUST WIN

East must win with the queen of diamonds and cannot make a safe return. If East returns a spade, dummy gets a free finesse; if East returns a club, dummy ruffs while South discards a spade.

What if East had three diamonds instead of two? Then the suit would break 3-3, and dummy's last diamond would be good for a spade discard.

What if East had four diadone, but South has lost nothing by trying. He must fall back on the spade finesse as his last attempt to make the slam.

The important thing is to take advantage of East's doubleton.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Feb. 23, the 54th day of 1963 with 311 to follow:

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1942, as President Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered one of his "fireside chats" to the nation, a Japanese submarine fired 25 shells at an oil refinery near Santa Barbara.

In 1954, the first mass inoculation of school children with Salk polio vaccine started in Pittsburgh.

A thought for the day—English author Samuel Johnson said: "Curiousity is one of the permanent and certain characteristics of a vigorous mind."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Mabel Van Osten Rites Held

Private funeral services were held today for Mrs. Mabel S. Van Osten, long active in Stinson Beach Allied Arts, of which she was a charter member.

Mrs. Van Osten died Thursday in a local hospital after long illness. She was 79.

Her home on Arenal Avenue had been a place of hospitality for Stinson Beach residents in her 28 years of residence there. The last 13 years, since the death of her father, Jacob Shively, she had lived alone—except for her frequent callers.

She instructed younger members of Stinson Beach Allied Arts in arts and crafts in which she had been a teacher during early adulthood in Napa. At one time she taught arts and crafts as occupational therapy at Napa State Hospital.

Her husband, Thomas D. Van Osten, who died in 1933, was a prominent figure in show business. He was a theatrical teacher and manager, and served as manager both of Sousa's Band and the Emerson Minstrels. He served the California Theater Assn. as secretary-general manager and as lobbyist in Sacramento.

They were childless. Mrs. Van Osten leaves a brother, J. E. Shively of Seattle.

Inurnment was at Mount Tamalpais Crematory, directed by Harry M. Williams Mortuary of San Rafael.

T. J. QUINLIVAN

High Mass for Requiem for Thomas J. Quinlivan of San Anselmo will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Anselm's Church there.

Quinlivan, an automobile salesman for J. and B. Ford Sales of Mill Valley, died unexpectedly Thursday night at his home at 46 Hillside Avenue. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Quinlivan, who was 45, was born in Denver, Colo., and had been a resident of California for 16 years and of Marin for one year.

He was a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Anselm's Church and a captain in the Friends of Marin Catholic High School. He was a veteran of World War II.

He leaves his wife, Noni H.; his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Quinlivan of Denver; two sons and a daughter, Thomas J. Jr., Paul S. and Judith Quinlivan, and a sister and three brothers, Mrs. Isabel Freeman and Albert J. Quinlivan Jr. of Denver, Charles Dehn of Ukiah and Howard Quinlivan of Santa Clara.

The funeral cortege will form at 9 a.m. Monday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, where the Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

B. D. CALDWELL

A memorial service for Brenton Daivson Caldwell of 30 Tiburon Boulevard, Tiburon, will be held in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Belvedere, at 1 p.m., Monday.

Caldwell, a native of Gary, Ind., died Wednesday. He was 60 years old.

He lived many years in Berkeley and was secretary-treasurer of Pan American Engineering Co. He moved to Marin County about 16 months ago and went into the real estate business.

He leaves his wife, Mary C. R. Caldwell of Tiburon; a daughter, Mrs. George McDonnell of Piedmont; a sister, Mrs. George Wheelwright of Honolulu, and his father, Millard A. Caldwell of Lebanon, Ind.

Monday's service will be conducted by Rev. Allan Taylor of Concord. Donations to the Henry Ohlhoff House, 601 Steiner Street, San Francisco, are preferred.

O. L. LITTLEJOHN

Funeral services are pending for Orval Loren Littlejohn, 72, of Paradise, Butte County, who died in a local hospital Thursday after a brief illness.

Littlejohn, a retired carpenter, was a native of Colorado. His survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Aubrey D. Pepple and Mrs. Ralph Coffing of San Rafael.

Littlejohn served four years in the Marine Corps just prior to World War I. He saw duty in the Philippines and in China.

He came to Marin County for surgery that was performed last week. Services are pending at the Lambert Funeral Home, Roseville.

He is also survived by his wife, Clara M. Littlejohn of Paradise; a son, Donald A. Littlejohn of Eugene, Ore.; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Elsworth Harrison of McMinnville, Ore.; two step-sons, Donald Sowers of Redondo Beach and Owen Sowers of Lawndale, Los Angeles County.

The oldest of a family of 11, he is also survived by two brothers, Roy Littlejohn of Kansas City, Mo., and Ernest Littlejohn of Alpine, San Diego County; three sisters, Mrs. Marion McCallen of Citrus Heights, Sacramento County; Mrs. Lenore Graybeal of Grand Junction, Colo., and Mrs. Robert Clarey of Canoga Park, Los Angeles County.

MAY MUKLE

May Mukle, 82, English cellist who spent the winter of 1962 at the Sausalito home of her accompanist, Pearl Sutherland Ideler, died Wednesday at her home in Sussex, England.

Miss Mukle, who gave frequent concerts in San Francisco, played a number of times with Pablo Casals. She frequently performed works for the first time, including music by Ernest Block, Dohnany, Victor Herbert and Vaughn Williams.

JOHN ALCANTARA

Rosary for John M. Alcantara of Point Reyes will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Monday at Sacred Heart Church in Point Reyes Station. Burial will be in Olema Cemetery.

Alcantara, a longtime dairy worker, died Wednesday in a local hospital.

The rosary was erroneously announced in yesterday's Independent-Journal as being set for 8 p.m. Monday.

Theater Intregration Won

Even Though 'Film Not Very Good'

BALTIMORE (AP) —"The movie wasn't very good, but it really doesn't matter," a Negro coed said as she came out of the Northwood Theater.

The theater—scene of six days of mass demonstrations and mass arrests—quietly opened its doors to Negroes yesterday.

UNIMPEDED

Twenty-three well-dressed Morgan State College students bought tickets to see "In Search of the Castaways" and walked unimpeded through the carpeted lobby.

Only two days before 74 students had been arrested as they tried to do the same thing, as were 339 before them.

They had protested the theater's exclusion of Negroes.

TRESPASSING

Thursday, after 413 students had been charged with trespassing or disorderly conduct and 343 of them had languished in Baltimore City Jail, the theater manager capitulated.

He agreed to end segregation, and the demonstrators agreed to end the demonstrations. The 343 were released from jail as their cumulative $200,000 bail was dropped. The charges stand.

One of the students who saw the movie yesterday was Sandra Upshur, 18, president of the Morgan freshman class. She had been arrested twice in the demonstrations.

"It sure is peaceful now," she said as she blinked against the afternoon sun. She moved up a place in line at the box office. "But I'm glad," she added thoughtfully.

Miss Upshur is secretary of the Civic Interest Group, a local civil rights organization responsible for the demonstrations. She was arrested in the picketing last Friday but was released the next day.

By Tuesday she said she had heard the morale of the girls in City Jail was dropping. So she got herself arrested that night. She said she wanted to be in jail to cheer them up.

Another student, Curtis Smothers, 19, said, "We're glad the theater is integrated."

"But we had 2,000 more customers for City Jail if they had not opened the theater," he said.

AMONG THE FIRST — Mrs. Renold Lighston, clutching an American flag in her left hand, buys a a ticket for her four children at the newly-integrated theater in Baltimore, Maryland. (AP Wirephoto)

ROMNEY IS FIGHTING 'MASON-DIXON LINE'

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP)—Gov. George Romney goes through his second inauguration here today, determined to erase an imaginary Mason-Dixon Line which has relegated Upper Peninsula residents to the status of Michigan's "forgotten citizens."

On the surface, today's festivities are the fulfillment of a campaign promise. The 55-year-old automaker-turned-governor told an airport crowd here last October that, if elected, he would return for a special "second inauguration" in this region of 300,000 population.

Romney, however, has a more serious objective in mind for the area above the Straits of Mackinac where people often have complained they are forgotten citizens.

The theme of the celebration, "Pulling Michigan Together," emphasizes Romney's belief that Michigan's urgent problems are the revitalization of its industrial and business economy. These are matters of acute concern in the Upper Peninsula.

Many of the iron and copper mines for which the region is famous have closed.

The fanciful Mason-Dixon Line had its roots in the 1830s. Federal authorities then sliced the "Toledo Strip" off Michigan for Ohio. As compensation, they gave Michigan the Upper Peninsula which geographically was part of the Wisconsin land mass.

Disgruntled Northerners have launched moves several times since to make the region a part of Wisconsin or a separate state of the union.

Inaugural officials, intending to exploit the heavy snow and below zero temperatures which normally mark an Upper Peninsula winter, planned to provide Gov. Romney and his wife, Lenore, with a horse-drawn sleigh after his arrival by plane.

The Republican governor and Mrs. Romney will ride down Escanaba's Main Street to the State Office Building, where he will re-affirm the oath of office he took on New Year's Day in Lansing, the state capital.

NASA Fails To Lure 2 Spacemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has tried and failed to lure away two of the Air Force's key space experts, an informed source said today.

The source identified the targets of the unsuccessful raid as Col. Charles E. Chuck Yeager, commandant of the Aerospace Research Pilot School at Edwards Air Force Base and Maj. Robert M. White, also of Edwards, X-15 pilot who holds the world altitude record for aircraft.

Yeager, who 15 years ago became the first man to fly faster than the speed of sound, heads the program in which the Air Force is training its own group of astronauts to fly the X-20 or Dyna-Soar orbital space plane, NASA's two-man Gemini spacecraft and military space vehicles of the future.

White is one of two men outside the Mercury man-in-space project who has qualified as an astronaut by flying a vehicle at an altitude of 50 miles or more. He took the rocket-powered X-15 research plane to a record altitude of 314,750 feet—59.61 miles—last July 17.

The other X-15 pilot to attain astronaut altitude is NASA research flier Joseph A. Walker, who took the craft to 51 miles last Jan. 17.

A representative of NASA was said to have offered Yeager the job of directing the training of astronauts for the Gemini and Apollo programs —the same type of work he now does for the Air Force.

White was invited to accompany Yeager into NASA, the informant said.

He added that both men rejected the offers—and the hefty pay boosts that went with it—to remain with the Air Force program.

A NASA spokesman said that Walter Williams, deputy director of NASA's Manned Space Flight Center at Houston, had some discussions with Yeager about a year ago. He said Yeager told Williams he would be otherwise engaged.

The NASA spokesman said he was unfamiliar with the situation with regard to White.

Surgical Knife Ready For Kennedy Tax Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy's tax program is still undergoing congressional diagnosis and is yet to be wheeled into the operating room. But already one critical item has been marked for major surgery.

And with it may go some of the proposed tax reductions.

This item is the proposal to put a floor under personal deductions like interest, local taxes and charitable contributions. It would allow deductions only to the extent their total exceeds 5 per cent of income.

No member of the House Ways and Means Committee, now considering the tax package, has publicly spoken up for this provision, advanced by the administration to recoup some of the revenue that would be lost by cutting tax rates. On the contrary, several members have predicted this will be among the first to go when the committee starts writing a bill in a month or so.

The tax-writing group begins taking public testimony on this proposal Monday. The witness list reflects the opposition of philanthropic groups, who already have been writing members that the provision would dry up contributions. Real estate and building interests, concerned with the effect of a change that would diminish present tax incentives to homeowning, are another potent source of opposition.

Yet the deductions floor is a big item in the over-all administration tax plan, which envisages reducing rates enough to cut the government income tax take 13.6 billion dollars a year eventually, but recouping 3.3 billion dollars through structural tax changes that would tax some income more heavily than now.

Of the 3.3 billion dollars recovery, a full 2.3 billion dollars would be provided by the 5 per cent deduction floor.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon has told the Ways and Means Committee the government cannot safely undergo a net tax reduction greater than 10.3 billion dollars and that if the floor on personal deductions is not approved, the rate reduction should be scaled down accordingly.

New Furniture Store Comes To San Rafael

House of Loungers, a new furniture store, has opened at 1435 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The store is the most recently opened retail outlet owned by Stan Spielman of San Francisco. Other stores are located in San Francisco, Palo Alto and Denver, Colo. A fifth store is planned for Walnut Creek about the middle of March. The firm also has a manufacturing plant and wholesale showrooms in Chicago.

R. Dixon Olivieri of San Francisco will be store manager in San Rafael.

Olivieri said the company specializes in the sale of foam lounger sofas which it manufactures. These also open into beds and can be supplied according to individual requirements and custom designs. The stores also sell reclining chairs, low and high-back chairs, modern Danish furniture, lamps, area rugs and wall and free-standing systems. Slip covers may be obtained for the firm's own manufactured products.

A Kindergarten For Less-Gifted Children

Marin Program Draws Interest Throughout U.S.

By ISABEL LEMLER

Tommy snatched the sand toy from in front of Roy's reaching fingers, and Roy, wheeling, gave chase until both boys tumbled, laughing, on the turf.

Quite a change from three months ago. Then, each had merely wandered aimlessly about the yard, apparently not even aware of the other children.

This was progress of a significant sort. For Tommy and Roy—and the other 20 preschoolers in the little house at 71 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia -- are learning the slow, tortuous, groping way of the mentally-retarded, how to get along with their fellows and their environment.

Unique in the nation, the Vendola Drive experiment is the first such venture to be operated by any type of public school department. As such, it is being watched with great interest by educators and administrators in other states, as well as throughout California.

Called KMR (Kindergarten for the Mentally Retarded), it is run by the county superintendent of schools and financed by funds allocated by the County Board of Supervisors. The undertaking is a concrete demonstration of a concept that free education for ALL children applies to mentally-retarded children at a tender age, too.

MOREOVER, its proponents believe that results will prove it is not only right, but also profitable.

Already, in these first months of operation, one child has graduated to a special class in the public school system. And many others are learning fast, according to mentally-retarded timetables.

Joe, indicating for the first time that he needs to go to the toilet, Marlene discovering that if she turns sideways she can easily slip through an opening too narrow to squeeze through head-on, Bob learning that pushing down first with one foot and then with the other makes the tricycle go, Susie abiding by the rule of ONE cracker taken from the passed basket—all these are making progress toward the next step in learning to live in a world geared to normal people.

An estimated 4 per cent of the population is mentally retarded. Without special training and understanding, the going is so tough that too large a percentage of them must be institutionalized at great expense to the taxpayer (nearly $3,000 a year average) and at great loss of potentially happy, helpful citizens.

Increasingly, the realization has grown that the Tommy and the Marlenes of this less-gifted group can be helped to be helpful—and happy.

NOW, FOR THE first time, public authorities have reached a helping hand down to the pre-school level.

Last February, when Marin Aid to Retarded Children, through the Marin County auditor-controller, Michael Mitchell, pointed out the great need, the reaction of Dr. Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, was immediate.

"These, too, are our children," he said, and he went into action. In short order came a series of meetings with the Marin Assn. for Retarded Children board, then in its seventh year of operating a nursery school of limited enrollment (10) with the help of donations from public-spirited groups and fees from hard-pressed parents.

What Edward Credell, assistant superintendent, calls a "guesstimate" of budget, housing, transportation and staffing needs was worked out. The county board of education and its president, Mrs. Adele Alpers, gave the project its blessing, and the board of supervisors, in unanimous action, stamped its approval with $13,500 for the first year's operation.

Almost before the grateful parents had a chance to catch their breaths, the new program was ready to roll.

THROUGH THE summer, administrators from the county schools office and MARC leaders worked on their own time to find suitable quarters, to notify parents of eligible children and to hire qualified personnel. They picked Mrs. June Osborne and Mrs. Hildegard Abramson as instructors, and Mrs. Betty Taylor and

LIKE KINDERGARTEN children throughout Marin County, Timmy Cahill, left, and Timmy Martin have fun as they begin at the pre-school level to learn how to get along with other youngsters. But the kindergarten they attend is a special one. It's the Kindergarten for the Mentally Retarded, located on Vendola Drive in Santa Venetia, and an educational experiment that is unique in this country and which is being watched by school people throughout the U.S. (Independent-Journal photo)

Mrs. Esther Muelrath as drivers.

MARC voted $1,000 for this year, and loaned its Volkswagen bus to the county, which also bought an automobile to transport some of the youngsters, aged 3 to 8.

Why so young? Because Dr. Hollis and his staff — like many other leading educators —feel strongly that the earlier a child's problems are diagnosed and treated, the better his chance for a useful, happy life. They believe, moreover, that the greater the handicap, the more important is early diagnosis and help in overcoming that handicap.

They had strong precedent in the program for the physically-handicapped. School for these youngsters starts at 3, with liberal state aid.

In the case of the mentally-handicapped, there is no state aid—not yet, anyway. The Vendola Drive project is supported entirely by the Marin County Board of Supervisors from Marin County general funds.

OTHER GROUPS have come forth to help with the project. Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, Marin County health officer, has agreed to provide nursing service. And the Marin County Psychologists Assn. has also offered to help. Three of this group, together with Daryl Hopkins, director of special education for the county schools, will set up procedures for screening applicants and for periodic evaluation of the children already in the program.

PERHAPS THE MOST VALUABLE contribution which kindergarten makes to a child's development is that it teaches the youngster how to get along with other boys and girls. This can be especially vital with the mentally-retarded child, for whom such lessons may not come easy. But here, left to right, Timmy Cahill, Timmy Martin and Peter Hansen are enjoying a romp together at their school. (Independent-Journal photo)

Retarded Children Are Not Forgotten

lot," Credell explained. "By the end of this year, I think we can—that is, a team of trained personnel can — recommend more accurately the best learning environment for each individual child."

"Thus, at age 3, a mentally-retarded child may remain at home or enter the KMR class. By 4 years, 9 months (the age at which a normal child goes to kindergarten), we should have a pretty good idea whether he would be better off in KMR or a regular kindergarten. A year later, the 'educable' mentally-retarded child would be eligible for this type of program in the public schools, and the 'trainable' mentally-retarded child could remain in the KMR class until age 8, when he could enter one of the two classes for school age children of his level."

TO TRANSLATE this into specifics, teasing Tommy, now aged 4½, might benefit from regular kindergarten. Bobby, at 7 just learning to ride a trike and not yet talking, probably would remain in the KMR class until 8, when he would go to a Trainable Mentally Retarded class.

This is, as Superintendent Hollis points out, an extremely individual business; there are almost no norms in finding the right niche for a child of sub-normal intelligence.

He Likes His Singing To Have Muscles

By DON KEOWN

Don Alden is a man who dislikes "namby-pamby" singing by male tenors.

"I think a male vocalist should sound masculine," he says. "That's why I favor singing that is more in the European style."

To achieve this effect, he adds, the program is as important as the voice.

"Take Italian tenors and their arias," he says. "There is music that is both he-man and beautiful."

Alden says he feels he has a mission to bring such concert and operatic music to the people of the smaller cities of the United States.

And it is for that reason that Alden has planned a concert recital to be given next Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock at the San Rafael Improvement Club.

The appearance will mark a return to the concert stage for Alden after an absence of several years. It will also, he hopes, mark a resumption of a promising professional career.

Alden has been singing professionally since the age of 13 when he appeared on a radio show in Seattle. In his teens he also did light opera including four seasons of Gilbert and Sullivan. In 1950 he appeared on the radio and won a regional championship in an Arthur Godfrey competition.

He joined a vocal trio, did operatic scenes and show tunes in night clubs, and recorded under the Rose label.

Then he left the West Coast and went to New York.

In the East, he worked with the Westchester Opera Company, including service as understudy for Jan Peerce in "La Traviata," and sang for Columbia Artists in its Community Concert Series.

Then he signed a three-year contract with a concert manager in New York. "And that was my big mistake."

"I was booked in all the wrong places," explains Alden. "They had me singing opera in nightclubs where the crowds were not the least bit receptive to opera."

So Alden left New York and came West to wait out the contract.

"It expired last year, and now I am ready to resume singing," he says.

Alden has not let the years of waiting go to waste. A resident of Marin County since 1958, he has been studying under Bernard Ferguson of San Rafael and has concentrated upon developing voice depth and versatility.

"I now have a three-octave range, which is unusual for a tenor," he says.

His wife, the former Rosemarie Regalia of Fairfax, where the Aldens now live, has encouraged him to continue with his vocal aspirations. So he has accepted a few engagements at society parties in San Francisco in preparation for his return to the concert stage.

To provide a livelihood for himself, his wife and their baby, Dino, he has been doing retail work in ladies' shoes.

"Now I am ready to again concentrate upon my voice," he says.

Alden has made his own arrangements for next Saturday's concert, and is taking care of his own publicity, stage preparations, etc.

"I was inspired to do so by the example of artist Walter Keane," he says. "I think he has demonstrated just how far an artist can go if he handles his own promotion, and does it with vigor. If you really want to push your own products or talents, then get in there and do it yourself."

Saturday's program will consist of scenes from operas. Tickets are available at Hoy's TV & Music Stores, and will also be on sale at the door of the Improvement Club the evening of the concert.

WIFE ROSEMARIE and five-months-old son Dino constitute an appreciative audience for tenor Don Alden as he practices in their Fairfax home. Alden resumes his professional career next Saturday night with a concert of operatic music at the San Rafael Improvement Club. He has had concert, light opera, radio and nightclub experience. "DID THE CLEANER SPILL BLEACH ON MY DRESS?"

Something was spilled on the back of your dress, but tests indicate that nothing used in a cleaning plant caused the damage. Your rayon dress has come in contact with cold wave solution or hair lotion. This discoloration is not always apparent at the time the lotion is spilled. After it has been on the fabric for a while or in the heat of normal drycleaning operations, the dyestuff which has been disturbed by the solution becomes visible. It is natural to think that it was caused by something the drycleaner spilled on the dress.

You will notice that the discoloration also appears on the neckline of the dress in addition to the rather large spot on the back. This is a further indication that hair lotion or cold wave solution has caused the damage.

Next to poor dyeing, damage from cold wave solution in contact with fabrics still causes more damage than all other color change factors. Be extremely careful that cold wave solutions or hair conditioners do not touch any fabric which you prize.

When The Tobin Sisters Were Headliners

IT HAS BEEN a long time since Belle Campbell and her sister, Lotta, were vaudeville headliners as the Tobin Sisters. But in her Sausalito home, Belle demonstrates that she can still pay the banjo. And on hand to accompany her at the organ or piano is her also talented daughter, Mrs. Annabelle Hartz, with whom she lives. (Independent-Journal photo)

Belle Recalls Her Career In Vaudeville

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Belle Campbell lives in a brown house in Sausalito at the end of a winding, weedy path.

In her 70s, she is from another era—vaudeville. But she is cocky and bright-eyed, alive to what's about her, and prefers young company to old.

At the turn of this century Mrs. Campbell and her sister, Lotta, were billed as the Tobin Sisters and, for more than a decade, were on the road with the Orpheum and Keith Albee circuits. "We were in the big time," said she.

MRS. CAMPBELL played banjo. She still plays it. We thought the cups were going to fall off their shelves in the kitchen when she sat down to play "Oh By Gee, By Gosh, By Jingo."

As she played, her left foot tapped out the time, her banjo bounced on her lap and her cat, Buttons, curled up unperturbed on the rug before her. "We had a 'surefire' act," said Mrs. Campbell.

Relating the story of how she went into the theater, she said "I had a job as a secretary for an architect. I had no idea of going into vaudeville.

Her sister and sister's husband, Fitzroy Tobin, had an act together, the reddish-haired Mrs. Campbell said, with Lotta playing trombone ballad horn. They went to Australia with the first vaudeville show to play Sidney.

"They took Sidney by storm," she declared.

Tobin died and one day Mrs. Campbell's sister said to her, "You and I are going to do an act."

"Who me?" Mrs. Campbell asked. "I can't do an act."

"'Yes you can. You can play a banjo,' my sister said," according to Mrs. Campbell.

"At that time I played with my fingers—gut strings it was called. I had to learn to play with the pick. I said 'I can't' and my sister said 'I'll teach you.' I started in. My sister was a wonderful piano player. She taught me everything by ear. We had three months of intensive rehearsing.

"ONE DAY she said 'I think you play well enough.' She went to the Orpheum in San Francisco where she had played, and asked Meyerfeld, head of the Orpheum chain, if he would like an audition. He said 'no' to my sister. 'If you say it is good, it is good,' he said. We got booked from here and opened in Columbus, Ohio.

"I was unconscious most of the act."

"En route to Columbus, while crossing from San Francisco to Oakland on the ferry," recalled Mrs. Campbell, "I looked down on the deck and saw a string of some-

COVER PHOTO

THE PHOTO of Mrs. Belle Campbell and her long-necked banjo which appears on the cover of this issue of the Independent - Journal Marin Magazine was taken by Robert Hax, I-J staff photographer.

A Big Decade In Vaudeville

'We Had A Surefire Act,' Says Belle Of The Tobin Sisters

thing. 'What's that?' I asked.

" 'Oh, those are our tickets,' my sister said. She wasn't very good about taking care of particulars. I said I had better take care of them.

"At Columbus the newspaper chose my picture to be used as the photograph of the week to tell about the show. Me who had never walked on a stage before . . ." mused Mrs. Campbell.

"The rehearsal was a revelation. I hardly remember going on that first afternoon. My sister took the last minute to tell me about our entrances. She was like Billie Burke. My solo was banjo and my sister's trombone. We did marimba, xylophone and chimes together. My sister also played cello.

"If anybody asked me now to do that, I would go down to Richardson Bay. Somehow we got through the week. Saturday night we got a notice in the newspaper describing our part as 'an act that will long be remembered.' I said 'I'll remember longer than they do.'

"A friend told my sister, 'tell your sister to smile.' I should smile. It was all I could do to get on the stage."

THE FORMER vaudevillian said she and her sister, who is now dead, played Chicago and other large cities including the Orpheum in San Francisco. Then she began to worry, knowing their contract was about to run out.

"My sister said not to worry, that she would go to Central Booking and get us a job," Mrs. Campbell related.

"Next to the last week when we played Brooklyn, an agent came to see us and said he wanted to book us in New York City. We were delighted. His percentage was 10 per cent. We made New York our headquarters where we played at such theaters as Hammerstein's."

Mrs. Campbell liked New Orleans immensely.

One time while playing there just before Mardi Gras a good looking man, she said, "fell hard for my sister."

"He owned a restaurant where we took our meals," she continued, "and wouldn't let us pay for anything for a week. He tried to date us but we said we couldn't date during the show. The Tobin sisters left at the end of the week, not having paid for any meal and not dating the restaurateur."

"It was a profitable week," said Mrs. Campbell.

She also remembers vividly playing in Bridgeport, Conn., and, just as she and her sister were about to go on stage, people back stage smelled smoke.

"THE SMOKE was starting to seep up where the musician's room was," said Mrs. Campbell. "We were panicky. The electrician, who had very fast timing, turned on every house light so the smoke wouldn't be visible. The stage manager said 'Go on. Do your act.' We did, knowing there was a fire underneath us . . . The show must go on."

During her career Mrs. Campbell played with vaudevillians Marshal P. Wilder, a dwarf who was a headliner; Charles Grapewin, Julius Tanner and Marie Dressler. A close friend was Blanche Ring, said the banjo player.

One of the first sidewalk conversation acts in vaudeville was that of Smith and Campbell. Belle met Jack Campbell while on the same vaudeville bill and they were married. The Campbells had a daughter, Annabelle (now Mrs. Hartz), with whom Mrs. Campbell now lives.

After quitting New York, Mrs. Campbell came to San Francisco where she organized the first all-girl orchestra and played at Tait's Cafe, across the street from the Orpheum. She remained there one year, then played at Fior d'Italia restaurant in San Francisco and later at the Green Mill in Los Angeles.

SEPARATING from her husband and deciding show business was not the best environment for her daughter, Mrs. Campbell put her banjo in storage and got an office job.

"For 15 years I didn't open the banjo case," she said.

However, Annabelle took piano and then organ lessons and became the "wonder girl organist" in Hollywood, playing pipe organ for Radio Station KNX sponsored by Wurlitzer. She has done work as church organist and choir director but, since last June when injured in an accident, has been able to play but for brief periods at home.

Belle Campbell has taken a "sleeper jump" on a train, the night run from one theater to the next; she knew how to tip a stagehand, that the 'drop' is the curtain and the hotels that didn't have bed bugs.

Comparing television and Las Vegas show business today with vaudeville in the early 1900s, she says, "We were never lucky enough to have somebody with a big sign saying 'laugh' or 'applaud' or to have Ed Sullivan on the side giving us a big hand. We had to get our own applause. There were no microphones either. We had to make ourselves heard."

Mrs. Campbell said that in her day a "headliner" got $500 to $600 while today he may get thousands.

BELLE CAMPBELL began playing banjo at about 8, she said.

"My Uncle John played, but he played badly and could only play one piece. He bought me a small banjo and I took lessons, but not from him. In those days in vaudeville, if you didn't play overtures on banjo, you didn't play. I did 'William Tell,' 'Poet and Peasant' and 'Zampa'."

"I'm not a bit domestic," Mrs. Campbell declared. "I'm the only woman who never made a pie. Every time I suggest 'Don't you think I should make a pie?' my daughter says she has an engagement. I can't knit and I can't put up jam."

The drop is long down on Mrs. Campbell's vaudeville days, but it is not down at the little brown house on Third Street. Frequently, on Saturday nights, neighbors come in and Mrs. Campbell picks up her long-necked banjo. Her left foot starts tapping, her fingers strumming and no one has ever heard anyone play "Oh By Gee, By Gosh, By Jingo" as she does. Except, of course, Buttons, the cat.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT—An article in an engineering journal started a conversation between Dariel Fitzroy, a consulting engineer on archictectural acoustics, and me about the range of sound in the concert hall as compared to the range of sound in a component stereo system. Actually, most truly high quality component home music systems have a wider and smoother frequency range than the concert halls. As the article pointed out . . . "If this is true should we not turn that old slogan around and have the concert hall sound like the home?" . . .

With high fidelity sound for the home we have been striving for the full hearing range of sound from 20 to 15,000 cycles or vibrations per second. As a general rule, in a home we are sitting fairly close to the source of sound—the speakers.

Because of the close proximity, we are able to hear the extremely high overtones in the 10,000 to 15,000 cps range. In fact some so called hi-fi systems are so hi-fi that the high range sounds strident and metallic and unnatural. In a concert hall, you are usually sitting at a great distance from the source of sound whether it be the live source or the reinforced sound coming from the proscenium speakers. You not only hear the live sound, but you also hear many reflected sources of sounds coming from bounces off of the ceilings and walls. In a properly designed concert hall, these reflected sounds and the live sounds arrive at the listener at approximately the same time; however, since this condition cannot be perfectly attained we have what we may term spaciousness and reverberation.

What about the high tones in the concert hall or theatre type auditorium? In most halls you probably are not getting much sound from about 5,000 cps and on up. The high frequencies from about 2,000 cps and on up are highly attentuated as they travel through air. The degree of attentuation depends on the frequency and on the temperature and humidity of the air through which it travels. From this you can see that in some halls you may not get much sound even in the 7,000 to 10,000 cps range.

Should we judge our music halls as being the best standard for sound quality? Regardless of whether we do or not, it still is the best place to feel and hear the intimacy of the performers.

An Artist Finds Beauty In Marin

Richard Ewen Likes To Get Back To Nature

By AL MORCH

Many Marin dawnings remind artist Richard Ewen of Ireland where he once lived.

"The greenness of Spring, the ground mists on the Nicasio dairy lands, Santa Venetia viewed from a hilltop at mid-day is not unlike a country village . . .

"It always brings to mind the words of John Locke, the 19th century poet: 'O Ireland, isn't it grand you look—Like a bride in her rich adornin'? And with all the pent-up love of my heart I bid you the top o' the mornin'."

EWEN, WHO divides his residence between Marin and San Francisco, quit a $21,000 a year job as creative director with a New York advertising agency to paint. Once the art director of Good Housekeeping Magazine, he maintains studio and living quarters near San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf.

To escape the city, he frequently spends time in Marin, living with such friends as the Frank Ashleys and the George Couttses in Mill Valley.

"I have always lived near the water, which is one reason why I appreciate Marin," he says. "I would live here full-time if economical considerations did not make it necessary that I live within walking distance or at least municipal bus fare of galleries, museums and art supply stores.."

Ewen, who is 34, tall and lean with a compelling Lincoln homeliness, is a painter of the representationalist school. It is derived from the realist movement. Time Magazine once summed it up thusly: "Good representational art is something for contemplation. Like building cathedrals, it involves the hand, the mind and the human spirit."

Ewen's work is currently on display at Art Unlimited Gallery on Tillman Place, San Francisco, through next Saturday.

San Francisco art critics, who have seen his work, say he shows great promise, not only as a sensitive interpreter of people and places, but also as a technician. One of his paintings was on display at the recent Palace of the Legion of Honor Winter Invitational.

HE ALSO teaches experimental drawing in mixed media at the Academy of Art, San Francisco, "to keep me from getting leaner," he explains.

"Velazquez, Goya and Picasso have influenced me the most. When I lived in Spain, I went to the Prado every day to study Velazquez. He could paint a man laughing like no other painter. He was a genius at capturing moments in a person's life. Goya gave us the excitement and drama; and Picasso, through his use of color and approach, gave artists a hundred new tools to work with.

"I found early the cleverness I had learned in the advertising world was of no use to me. It is easy to paint ugliness; capturing beauty is the taskmaster. This is why I must now and again get back to the country—simple land, trees, animals—to perfect my skills. When people live with nature, as they do in Marin, they develop, or should I say return to, the basic qualities that qualify us as human beings."

Ewen abandoned abstract art several years ago, when he found it provided only a "limited vocabulary."

"IT WAS TOO sparse to meet the needs of today. The future holds far more delicate and complex thoughts. The meat must be put back on the bones to tell the story of simple people living complicated lives," he says.

Having traveled extensively in this country and abroad, Ewen, unlike many of his contemporaries who can find nothing but fault with America, sings loudly the praises of his countrymen.

"We have a hardiness, humor, lustiness and joy that is hard to find anywhere else in the world. But we are under lots of pressure and we are tiring. Where fatigue is found, fear can't be far behind. And when fear gets hold of your heart, there goes your country," he says.

Some day he hopes to portray Marin and its people.

"But before you can court a woman, you must first absorb her beauty and personality with your eyes and mind," he comments.

Until then, Marin serves him as a second home—a sanctuary where he can relax and recoup his energies and acquire fresh inspiration and perspective for the work which lies ahead when he returns to his studio in the city.

ARTIST RICHARD EWEN, part-time Marinite, displays one of his works from his Irish period. A representationalist, Ewen attempts "to portray the beauty of truth." This painting was inspired during his residence in a small village in Northern Ireland where he came upon this chap in the local pub. The Irishman, a farmer's son, had just fallen heir to the family farm, Ewen explains, and therefore had become fair game for the village's unmarried girls.

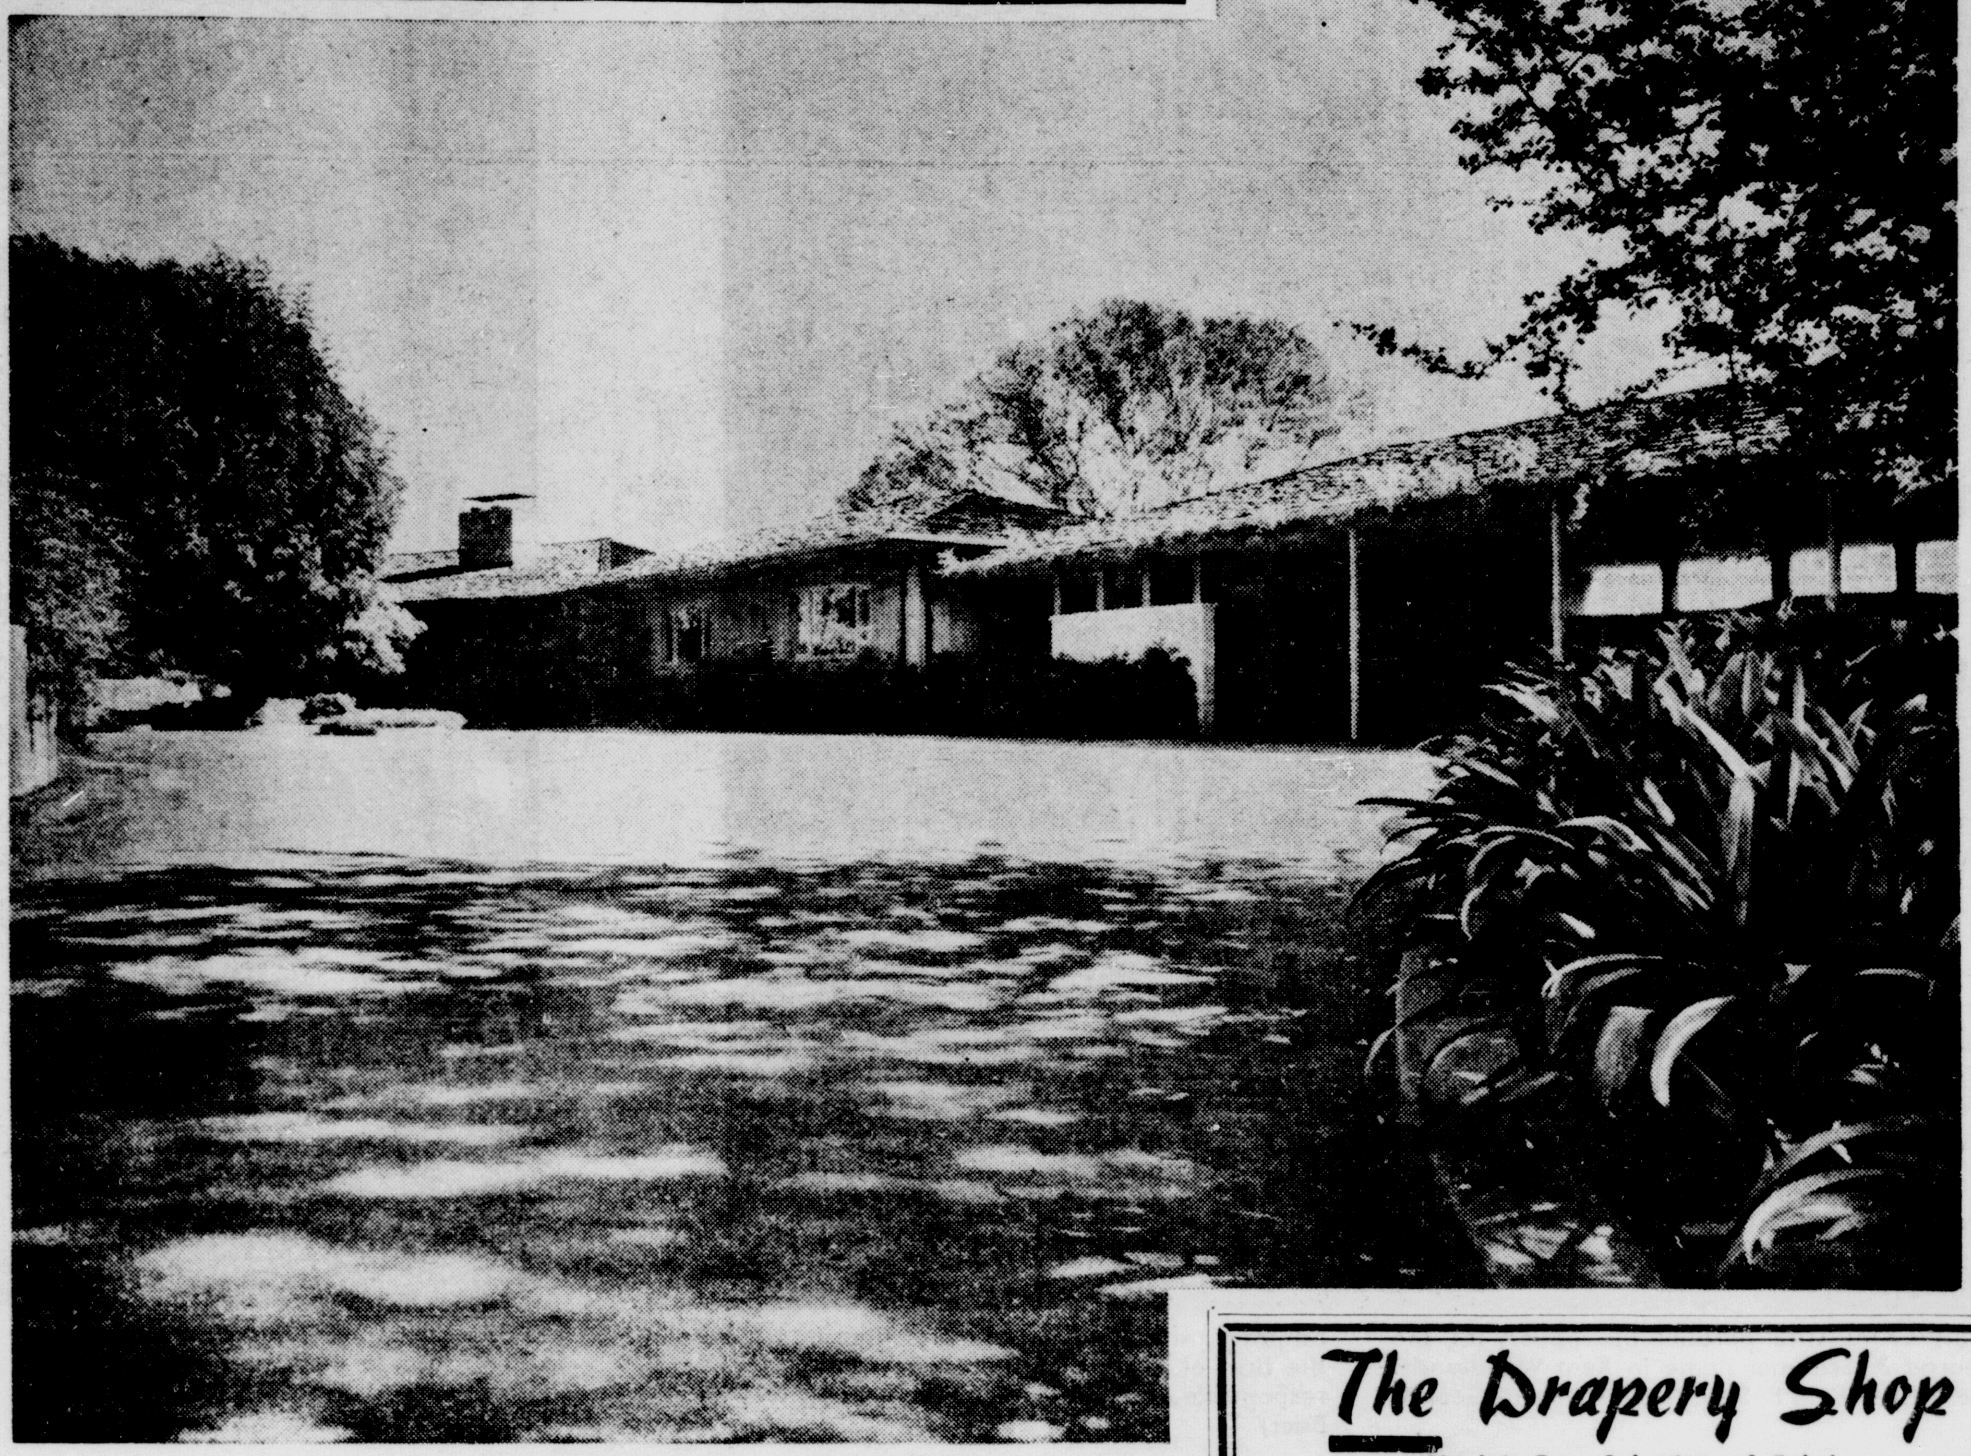
Marin Living



THE SPACIOUS entry to the George B. Schirmer home in Kent Woodlands creates an atmosphere of luxury for the visitor upon his arrival. And what he finds inside this beautiful house is perfectly in keeping with that first impression, as you will see for yourself in the pages that follow. (Photo by Ken Molino).

A Luxury Home Planned For Elegance And Entertainment

The George B. Schirmer home in Kent Woodlands was designed for luxurious living and for extensive entertainment.

The landscaping of the acre and a half site was by Eckbo, Royston and Williams of San Francisco, with more than 60 oaks forming the background for specimen shrubs and flowers.

A separate carport accommodates four automobiles with guest parking for an additional 25 cars in the sweeping entrance. Unusual outdoor lighting effects make the home a showplace, day or night.

The home was designed especially for the Schirmers by Mr. Schirmer's late brother, architect William E. Schirmer.

The main living area has a gallery, master bedroom suite, another bedroom, a huge living room, a deck running the entire length of the house, a formal dining room, a powder room, a kitchen and a utility room.

On the garden level are two more bedrooms and a large and custom-designed workship.

A temperature-controlled wine cellar houses 25 or more cases.

A bed, sitting room and bath arrangement for servants is provided in conjunction with the carport, thus affording both owners and employees privacy.

The luxurious home demonstrates the kind of elegance which has attracted more and more executives and their families, accustomed to luxury living, to Marin County.

A LITTLE JEWEL for your garden—that's the Thumbelina, the ever-blooming six-inch dwarf and compact zinnia that has been awarded the first All-America Gold Medal to be presented since 1950. The Thumbelina, in mixed colors, is ideal for a delightful summer border. (Photo by California Assn. of Nurserymen and the Ferry-Morse Seed Co.)

New Faces Among The Bedding Plants

It's one of the pleasures of gardening that new faces are always appearing in the plant world.

New roses, especially the All-America Rose Selections, get the lion's share of publicity in this line, but there are many new faces which also deserve a few raves. Among these are the new bedding plants which will be making their first appearances during 1963.

On hand in the nurseries this year are several new annuals which should gladden the heart of anyone who likes his color quick and bright. Included are two zinnias and two petunias which rank as outstanding.

A miniature zinnia named Thumbelina copped top honors for the year by walking off with the Gold Medal in All-America competition, and another zinnia named Firecracker was winner of the AA Silver Medal. This marks the second year in a row that zinnias have finished strongly in this competition, an indication that new and wonderful things keep happening to this old standby.

THUMBELINA IS a compact little charmer which grows only about six inches high. It should become a favorite in all parts of the state.

Its blooms are double or semi-double in a mixture of yellow, orange, pink, scarlet, lavender and white. Growers claim it starts blooming early —when the plants are only three inches high—and will continue blooming until frost, if you keep the fading flowers picked off.

The Silver Medal winner, Firecracker, is a cactus-type zinnia which the growers claim is merely the largest of this type ever seen. It comes in one color only, a flaming scarlet red, and should be a real winner with those who love the lavish display which only the larger zinnias can offer.

Though they failed to win AA honors, the new Cascade petunia strain has been enthusiastically received by California growers and nurserymen. They are petunias of the grandiflora type, with huge blooms measuring up to four or five inches in diameter.

FOUR OF THESE Cascade hybrids are available in nurseries. Fandango Cascade has a rich violet blue flower with a white star in its center. Pink Cascade is a bright, clear pink. Red Cascade is a vivid scarlet, and White Cascade is a pure sparkling white. All of the Cascade petunias are early blooming and can be counted on for a long show of color.

Four new petunias of the double multiflora type are also well worth note. They are Cardinal Red, Honey Bunch, which is a lovely salmon pink; Pink Riches and White Riches. The variety Cardinal Red might also be found as Red Riches. In either case, it's one and the same petunia.

These new double multifloras produce compact, spreading plants which are excellent for massing. The flowers are medium size, of the carnation type and plenty of them.

AT THE SAME time you shop for these 1963 introductions, keep an eye out for the best of the new ones from last year. The 1962 AA winners were especially popular and should prove to be big sellers once again.

As those who grew them remember, there were four AA annuals last year — two zinnias, an annual dianthus and a basil, the latter more prized for the rich purple coloring of its leaves than for its culinary contribution which is an added bonus. This basil is named Dark Opal.

The two zinnias, both big and showy, were Giant Red Man, which produces five or six-inch blooms on two-foot stems, and Old Mexico, a compact plant with loads of mahogany and gold flowers.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Hurry up on the bareroot planting. The season is fast running out on us.
- Make another planting of gladiolus if it's been about three weeks since you last set any out. This insures a succession of bloom.
- Other summer blooming bulbs such as begonias, tigridias, tuberoses, cannas and callas may also be planted now.
- Start working up a seedbed for that new lawn if you want to plant it this spring. Use plenty of manure, and peat moss, and also some commercial soil conditioner to keep it in good shape.
- Prune fuchsias now, cutting them back at least one-third to be sure of plenty of new growth to carry blooms.

Two Vital Issues Of Christians

THE PURPOSE OF GOD AND THE CHRISTIAN LIFE by Fred L. Fisher, Westminster Press, 189 pages, $3.75. Reviewed by Clayton K. Harrop.

This book, by the professor of New Testament at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary on Strawberry Point, is concerned with two of the vital issues facing Christians today — the purpose of God and the problem of election.

The first half of the book is devoted to a consideration of the first problem. In it the author sets forth the concept that God has always and is still acting purposefully in His world. God has a purpose which is "pretemporal" and has "its only ground and reason in the eternal God, a purpose that He is working out in the world."

This purpose is effectively traced from creation through the world of nature, world history, Israel, Christ, into the Christian age and unto the consummation of the ages.

"The Bible becomes a saga of God's movements to realize His dream of a perfect people in a perfect world, living in perfect fellowship with God and with one another." Even the problem of evil is not overlooked in the attempt to trace out this eternal purpose.

The second half of the book is devoted to the problem of election. The author does not side with either theological extreme. He finds neither the doctrine of "double predestination" nor the idea that man determines his own salvation in the Scripture. Rather, he insists very convincingly that while salvation is the work of God, damnation is the choice of man. He comes to grips with the dual question of divine foreknowledge and human freedom, insisting that both concepts are true and can be reconciled with divine election.

The closing chapter presents the practical outreach of this doctrine in the lives of God's people.

This book is well-written, and while its concepts will not be universally accepted, they cannot be dismissed without serious thought and Bible study. It should prove stimulating reading to anyone seriously interested in God's purpose and man's salvation.

Suspense On Isle Of Rhodes

By DON KEOWN

SEVEN TEARS FOR APOLLO by Phyllis A. Whitney, Appleton - Century - Crofts, 306 pages, $4.95.

Phyllis Whitney has earned a reputation as a writer of romantic suspense novels with a Daphne du Maurier - like atmosphere of gloomy foreboding.

Her latest, "Seven Tears For Apollo," has, however, less of this eeriness, more of the earmarks of an exciting adventure yarn.

The setting is colorful—the Greek island of Rhodes. There the young heroine, Dorcas Brandt, attempts to protect herself and her small daughter against a mysterious menace. Involved is the theft of a museum treasure.

We found our early reading clouded by a vague irritation with Dorcas—an exasperation with her toleration of the domineering woman who is her employer, and with her erratic behavior in times of crisis. Not even the explanation that she had previously suffered a mental breakdown was sufficient to win our wholehearted sympathy. But as the book progresses, the girl's character is strengthened, and she becomes a more interesting person.

The use of the Rhodes locale by Miss Whitney is little short of inspired.

For those who like their suspense tales a good notch or two above the usual run-of-the-mill crime story, a Phyllis Whitney novel is always a wise selection. "Seven Tears For Apollo" will not disappoint.

VACATION months aren't so very far away, and Sunset's Lane Book Co. has just published three books in its Discovery series that may well be of help to you in planning your annual fling.

Largest of the trio and selling for $1.95 is "Pacific Northwest and British Columbia." It is an illustrated guide for travelers headed for a scenic section which gained thousands of new admirers lured northward last year by Seattle's World Fair. A lot of those vacationers will be returning again this spring and summer, and, with the fair a thing of the past, will have more time to devote to the other sights.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST AND BRITISH COLUMBIA by the editorial staff of Sunset Magazine, Lane Book Co., 174 pages, softcover, $1.95.

Sunset editors have compiled 176 pages crammed with photographs, maps and information on worthwhile points in five states—Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming—and two provinces —British Columbia and Alberta.

As an ex-Washingtonian, we can testify to the thoroughness and the competence with which the Sunset people have done their chores.

The two smaller books sell for $1.75 each and cover "Mexico" and "Alaska." If thinner than the Pacific Northwest tome, they should, nevertheless, serve their purpose well. If you are considering either our 49th state or our neighbor to the south as your vacation land, these books are most worthwhile investments for that important pre-trip planning.

The Sunset editors have also issued the 1963 version of their "Western Campsite Directory" with its annual up-to-date listing of the available public campgrounds and the facilities and recreational opportunities they provide.

DEATH STILLED a powerful voice against conformity in thinking when C. Wright Mills died.

However, Irving Louis Horowitz has assured his continued influence by collecting all of Mills' major essays under the title—"Power Politics and People." Ballantine Books has published them as a paperback, and the Oxford University Press is to follow next month with a hardcover edition.

POWER, POLITICS AND PEOPLE by C. Wright Mills, Ballantine Books, 657 pages, paperback, $1.45.

Sociologist Mills had a way of sweeping aside the superficialities and getting down to hard core facts. He exposed our follies. And he offered concrete steps to correct them.

You didn't have to agree with Mills to appreciate his keen mind and his courage.

These essays are not for rapid reading. The subjects with which Mills is wrestling —power and responsibility in modern society—are too involved, too complicated for that. But C. Wright Mills is well worth the time — and thought—he requires.

Twilight World

THE DOOR TO THE FUTURE by Jess Stearn, Doubleday and Co., 327 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

Jess Stearn presents in "The Door to the Future" a description of the methods and history of astrologists, mystics, mediums, occultists. He also examines the prophecies of the Bible, Fatima, Malachy and Nostradamus.

If you believe that clairvoyance and precognition are pastimes to entertain or placate the gullible, your attitude may be somewhat modified by reading this book — but then again you may feel amazement or mere amusement.

It seems incredible to me that police departments actually have called psychics in to solve a crime, or that surgeons would refuse to operate before consulting their astrologist, or that FDR consulted a psychic to ask when he would die.

But it's all there, well-researched and reported by a real journalism pro.

My husband says it's worth considering. My grandmother says I shouldn't be such a smart aleck — who knows? I say it's fun to read—stretches the imagination.

For Teen-Agers

FOREVER FREE: The Story of the Emancipation Proclamation, by Dorothy Sterling, Doubleday and Co., 197 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"Forever Free" opens with the watch party in Boston on Jan. 1, 1863—a century ago —as throngs waited in the Music Hall for word that President Abraham Lincoln had signed the promised proclamation freeing Negro slaves.

It turns back then to the 15th century, when the first Africans were carried in slavery to Europe, and traces the history of slavery in America—and of the long battle to outlaw it.

Dorothy Sterling has written this book for teen-agers. The narrative moves briskly, excitingly. But it is in no way the sloppy, inaccurate writing that too often is addressed to the juvenile audience.

The publisher lists "Forever Free" as for ages "up to 16." It is not for little children. There is too much bitter realism in it—as well as too much vocabulary.

Actually, both author and publisher may have underestimated their audience. "Forever Free" is well worth reading by adults. The abolitionists of 1850 have their counterparts today, and the reaction is strikingly similar.

Marin College Students View The Movies As An Art Form

One of the College of Marin's most active student-managed organizations is its Art Club.

Formed in 1961 by students interested in making a contribution not only to the campus but to the entire community, the club promptly initiated a film series.

Shown that first year were "The Golden Age of Comedy" and "The Captain's Paradise."

IN THE FALL of 1962 the organization began to flourish as new students joined its ranks. A short experimental series of two more films — "Rasputin and the Empress" and "Ninotchka"—was scheduled. And the audiences were invited to fill out a questionnaire to be used as a guide by the club in planning future film programs.

What that survey disclosed was:

Fifty-three per cent of those filling out the form preferred vintage American films including silents; 44 per cent wanted foreign films, and 3 per cent voted for recent American releases.

With those results in mind, the club planned its 1963 Spring "Profile of the Film" series which continues tonight with D. W. Griffith's silent epic, "Birth of a Nation."

Other movies remaining on the 1963 series include "Rashomon" and "The Red Balloon" on March 23; "An American in Paris" on April 20; "Greed" on May 18, and two British comedies to be shown June 1.

All the movies are shown in Olney Hall on the college campus in Kentfield, starting at 8 p.m. The public is invited, and proceeds go into a general scholarship fund.

THE COLLEGE of Marin Art Club does not limit its interests and activities to the movies. Later this semester there will be an exhibition and sale of student art work.

But to date the major preoccupation has been with the film as an art form. Several students are currently at work producing their second experimental motion picture with the assistance of art and photography instructor Lou Caillat. Last fall the club sponsored a "Cinema Forum" which surveyed the history of the cinema. Presented at that program was a short subject filmed on the campus by Caillat.

Art instructor Alton Riable serves as adviser to the club. Students officers include Byron Trott, president; Anthony White, film board chairman; Richard Hoyt, treasurer, and Jeanne Taylor, secretary. Meri O'Brian, Pam Wallace, Ian MacAuley, Cecily Merrill and Mike Thiercoff are film board members.

PIANIST MARCUS GORDON will open the 1963 Spring Concert Series at Dominican College, San Rafael, Monday at 8:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall. He will play works by Bach, Scarlatti, Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin and others.

WINTER

Winter!
To those who await you, you are feared,
longed for,
and, by the young, dismissed as myth.
Whose hearts have felt your black finger's icy touch, shed no warming light for them standing at thy fog enshrouded door.
For they who enter within leave naught outside,
but themselves.

Themselves, that is, who vitalize the tender blossoms, whose frail petal's beauty push your dark clouds aside. How long?

The fear, ah,
it is their fear you leave behind.
Take it too and you are merely curious; plaything for the bored.

Winter, I shall come into your embrace. For me, please be warm.
